Recent Keynote At Convention Speaks In Detroit, Michigan

DETROIT, June 24.—Calling upon the American people to disregard "passion and prejudice, which must not enter into a contest the outcome of which may effect our destiny not only for the next four years but for a score or more," Sen. L. J. Dickinson, (R) of Iowa, today fired the opening gun in the campaign to re-elect President Hoover.

Dickinson, keynoter at the Republican National Convention which re-nominated the President and Vice-President Charles Curtis, addressed the annual convention of the National Credit Men's Association. He devoted his entire message to plea for a Republican victory at the polls next November.

Fight On Record

He prefaced his remarks by declaring the Republican party will fight the presidential campaign on its record and "make its appeal to reason."

"Under present conditions, tariff, prohibition and other questions are secondary," the senator said.

Defends Party Stand.

Dickinson defended the stand taken by his party on the prohibition question. He said the Republican party offered a solution which "I think will come to be recognized more and more as time passes as wise and constructive."

"A great many of our people are convinced that prohibition is a failure," he said. There are, how-

Evidently it is taken for granted that persons operate automobiles upside down and persons walk on their hands in Smithfield street, as one of Pa Newc news-seekers yesterday noticed a "Stop Sign" upside down. It is located at Smithfield and West Washington street.

Howard Phillips, superintendent of the collection of garbage, said today that garbage is not piling up in the city and he doesn't propose that it will. Senator Wagner Confident Measure Will Meet President's Approval

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A compromise jobless relief program, carrying at least $2,300,000,000 to stimulate employment and provide food for the needy, loomed today at the Garner-Wagner programs were sent to a senate-house conference.

The senate and house had each adopted its own relief program, but leaders in the fight for legislation were confident a compromise can be reached.

Early Agreement.

The prospect for early agreement was enhanced by the senate's action in passing the Wagner program as an amendment to the Garner bill, thus permitting the measure to go directly to conference.

A presidential veto, hinted by administration leaders, appeared to be a more formidable threat.

Both the Garner and Wagner programs carry bond issues for public works to create jobs, a plan that has been attacked by President Hoover as unsound and a menace to the government's financial position.

Senator Wagner (D) of New York, author of the senate measure, was confident it would meet White House approval. The senate vote on the bond issue feature of the Wagner bill indicated it could be passed over the veto.

Features of Bills.

The principal features of both measures are:

The Garner program provides $100,000,000 for direct relief to be administered by the president; the Wagner bill authorized $300,000,000 in loans to states for unemployment

Attempt To Flee County Detective Is Rank Failure

Ellport Man Is Arrested And Faces Charge Of Liquor Law Violation

County Detective Peck Lee's athletic experience stood him in good stead Thursday night. Mike Mokranian, of Ellport is in the Ellwood jail under $1,500 bond, and the county has five gallons of panther juice.

About midnight the Ellwood City police stopped a car near Burnstown which they suspected contained liquor. It did, five gallons of it, but in the capture, a man and woman got away. County Detective Lee was called and answered the call immediately.

Lee went to the home of Mike Mokranian near Ellport but when the gentleman found he had callers, he left by the upstairs window, the officer reports. His intentions in running away may have been of the best, but Lee at one time made his living at that sort of thing. Down over the hill Mokranian went, with Lee gaining at every stride. As he reached him Lee tackled him and when he tackles them they stay tackled.

Mokrainin's arrest resulted when he carelessly backed his car into a curb and nearly struck down a pedestrian about 10:45 last night. This was seen by Officer Chester Young who was patrolling his beat in the third ward. Thinking that the man was under the influence of liquor he gave chase across the borough line.

Officer Young reported the incident to Lieutenant E. R. Hartman who called County Detective H. M. Lee so as to be able to go out of the borough after their man. The three found the car near another home in Ellport and proceeded to investigate. Upon searching it they produced a five gallon can of alleged moonshine liquor. Upon entering the near-by home the police noted that their quarry had left through a window and immediately gave chase. He was caught in a field with Lieut. Hartman and Officer Young aiding Lee.

Says Convention Will Vote To Abrogate Rule On Nominations

By RAYMOND J. BORST
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—Fearing that the Al Smith-favorite sons combination in the Democratic national convention may prove able to prevent Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt from ever attaining the required two-thirds, the more radical managers of the Roosevelt camp decided today to make a drive to abolish the ancient rule at once, and nominate the governor on the first ballot by a majority vote.

James A. Farley, Roosevelt's campaign manager, said the Roosevelt forces had no intention of holding the abrogation of the two thirds rule in abeyance as a threat in the event the New York governor was not nominated in the early balloting.

Seek To Abrogate Rule.

"There is no sense in holding anything in abeyance at this convention," he said. "We intend to abrogate the two-thirds rule immediately and nominate the governor on the first ballot by a majority vote."

Farley had no doubts about the ability of the Roosevelt forces to abolish the rule.

"We would not have made the move unless we were satisfied as to our position," he said. "The rules committee will report favorably the motion to abrogate that rule."

No Sign Of Weakness.

Farley said Governor Roosevelt personally had nothing to do with the decision of the Roosevelt forces to move for abolition of the rule.

"The governor did not know a thing about it until after it was over," he said.

"Is this move not a sign of weakness?" Farley was asked.

"We don't consider it a sign of weakness", he snapped back. "Of course, the opposition will claim it is."

He added the opposition in the rules committee would probably present a minority report and the matter would be fought out on the floor of the convention.

"Why has the south apparently switched on the two-thirds rule?" he was asked.

"Because," he replied, "they came here to nominate Roosevelt and they are determined nothing shall interfere."

He declared further "we are not a bit afraid of the talk of a 'tainted nomination.'"

And, he added, he was "still confident" of beating Jouett Shouse for permanent chairman.

Mayor Walker Has Private Car In Order To Take Dog

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—Because Admiral Togo is the Mayor's dog, and dogs, even those of the Mayor, are not permitted on ordinary passenger cars.

Before leaving, the Mayor explained he himself was paying for the private car, an allusion to testimony before the recent Hofstadter Legislative Committee when Samuel Seabury, chief counsel, brought out one of the Mayor's trips to Europe was paid for by others.

Walker was in high good humor, and between remarks on the political situation, quipped with those about him.

A photographer asked him to step away from the crowd, as he couldn't see very well.

"Did he say I can't sea-bury well?" the Mayor wise-cracked.

Told the city would be without a mayor since both Walker and Aldermanic President McKee, who otherwise would be acting mayor, will be at the convention, Walker retorted:

"What a swell break for the city."

"I am going to Chicago in the hope the Democratic convention will nominate a man who will be able to bring about the economic reconstruction of the country, restoring hundreds of thousands of unemployed men to jobs and bringing back prosperity," he said.

New York Governor's Leaders Seek To Abrogate Two-Thirds Rule

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

CHICAGO, June 24.—The Democrats squared grimly away at each other today for another Madison Square Garden battle.

Everything now points to this Democratic National Convention witnessing a fight just as intense and bitter as that of eight years ago, although probably it will be settled in less rounds.

Developments that plainly indicated this were:

New Developments

1. A blunt warning by Al Smith, speaking through his floor manager, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, that Franklin D. Roosevelt cannot win in November if nominated. The statement characterized Roosevelt as "the weakest man" before the convention.

2. A decision by the Roosevelt managers to attempt abrogation of the two-thirds rule, under which every Democratic presidential candidate since Jackson has been nominated. They fear they may never be able to get two-thirds of this convention.

Claim 691 For Roosevelt

3. Coordination of all the anti-Roosevelt forces into a last-ditch battle to prevent his nomination either by the two-thirds rule or the majority rule.

It takes 770 to nominate under the two-thirds rule; only 578 under the majority plan.

PLAY "JOHN BRENT" GIVEN LAST EVENING

One off the most interesting and successful reunions which has ever been held by the New Castle Consistory, A. A. S. R., will terminate this evening, with the dinner and dance program by the Consistory Dinner Club.

Thursday was largely one devoted to entertainment, a golf match being staged at the New Castle Field Club in the morning, followed by the exemplification of the degrees during the afternoon, and the presentation of the historical play, "John Brent," in the evening.

The same cast which took part in the production for local Masonry several weeks ago, again were seen, and the play was put on with the same professional accent as on the previous occasion, a large number of visiting brethern being present for the occasion.

Yesterday was also observed as Ladies Day and a group of New Castle women carried out an interesting program for the ladies throughout the day.

The degree work will be concluded late this afternoon following which preparations will be made for the dinner and dance this evening, when a fine program will be presented under the generalship of William J. Moffatt, general chairmen of the Consistory Dinner Club.

The consistory class, composed of those taking the degrees, was organized Thursday afternoon. It was named the Clarence E. Reed class, in honor of the oldest member in the class, Clarence E. Reed, aged 70, of near Monaca.

President—Thomas D. Frye, New Florence.

Vice president—A. D. Welty, Jr., Greensburg.

Aimee's Husband Is Much Worried

Outcome Of Trial For Love Balm Is Real Worry For Hutton

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—"Smiling" David Hutton was worried today about the possible outcome of Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre's sensational love balm suit against him.

Hutton, husband of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist of Angelus Temple, declared "I don't know what I'll use for money if she happens to win.

"I haven't been making any money lately, and it's a cinch Aimee isn't going to pay her off."

Hutton's statements were made after a torrid court session in which Miss St. Pierre described in detail how Hutton had wooed her on a "love divan" in her Hollywood bungalow."

Mayor Walker Has Private Car In Order To Take Dog

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.— Because Admiral Togo simply couldn't miss the Democratic National Convention, Mayor James J. Walker was speeding Chicago-ward today in a private railroad car.

Admiral Togo is the Mayor's dog, and dogs, even those of the Mayor, are not permitted on ordinary passenger cars.

Before leaving, the Mayor explained he himself was paying for the private car, an allusion to testimony before the recent Hofstadter Legislative Committee when Samuel Seabury, chief counsel, brought out one of the Mayor's trips to Europe was paid for by others.

Walker was in high good humor, and between remarks on the political situation, quipped with those about him.

A photographer asked him to step away from the crowd, as he couldn't see very well.

"Did he say I can't sea-bury well?" the Mayor wise-cracked.

Told the city would be without a mayor since both Walker and Aldermanic President McKee, who otherwise would be acting mayor, will be at the convention, Walker retorted:

"What a swell break for the city."

"I am going to Chicago in the hope the Democratic convention will nominate a man who will be able to bring about the economic reconstruction of the country, restoring hundreds of thousands of unemployed men to jobs and bringing back prosperity," he said.

New York Governor's Leaders Seek To Abrogate Two-Thirds Rule

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—The Democrats squared grimly away at each other today for another Madison Square Garden battle.

Everything now points to this Democratic National Convention witnessing a fight just as intense and bitter as that of eight years ago, although probably it will be settled in less rounds.

Developments that plainly indicated this were:

New Developments

1. A blunt warning by Al Smith, speaking through his floor manager, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, that Franklin D. Roosevelt cannot win in November if nominated. The statement characterized Roosevelt as "the weakest man" before the convention.

2. A decision by the Roosevelt managers to attempt abrogation of the two-thirds rule, under which every Democratic presidential candidate since Jackson has been nominated. They fear they may never be able to get two-thirds of this convention.

Claim 691 For Roosevelt

3. Coordination of all the anti-Roosevelt forces into a last-ditch battle to prevent his nomination either by the two-thirds rule or the majority rule.

It takes 770 to nominate under the two-thirds rule; only 578 under the majority plan.

FINANCE IS SPECIAL SESSION PROBLEM

Four Million Is Balance Needed By Legislators

State Solons Must Dig Up Four Million To Give Economic Status Even Keel

TALBOT BILL STILL RANKLES

Problems Of Last Session Must Be Concluded Before New Action

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Pennsylvania's legislature, preparing today to launch a broad and effective relief movement through special session legislation, must find more than four million dollars before it even begins to counteract the new welfare needs accumulating since the last extraordinary meeting.

Summarily, the work of the last session must be completed and its deficiencies remedied before the approaching gathering can be deservingly termed a fresh attack on unemployment ills.

The decision of Attorney General William A. Schnader a few weeks ago virtually nullified the apparent benefits of the $10,000,000 Talbot relief act. All but about $375,000 of the appropriation was met by slashing previous allocations to state-aided hospitals and universities and mothers' assistance funds.

Need Four Million

This left $9,720,364 which the legislature would have to restore before any real, new relief could be extended. Later, the action of Gov. Gifford Pinchot in effecting economies of about $5,300,000 reduced that deficiency to something above $4,000,000.

Taking first place in the proposed legislative program is a bill to restore these abatements. Inclusion of the measure indicated that conferees realized that there is one job to be finished before new tasks are undertaken. When the $4,000,000 is provided, the commonwealth's economic status will be virtually the same as it was prior to the first special sesion, insofar as the imparting of any direct relief by the assembly is concerned.

Additional relief, the object of the second convocation, will start from that point.

Father's Day Will Be Noted

A program of especial interest will be given in the Sunday school of the Church of the Nazarene, West Falls street, Sunday morning, at 9:30 when Father's day will be fittingly observed.

Each father who atends the Sunday school will be presented with a favor.

Addresses will be made by Norman Thomas, candidate for president on the Socialist ticket and Jas. Maurer, assemblyman from Reading, who is the party's choice for vice president.

Grant and Lincoln avenue and cannot be seen at night.

It must have hailed somewhere in the district yesterday as the air was quite cool late Thursday afternoon and throughout the night. Blankets felt good during the night, and tin workers got a respite from the summer heat.

We shudder to think of what that little East Washington street boy probably got when his mother found out what happened to the box of strawberries! Pa Newc saw the lad sitting on the steps of his home last evening with the quart box on his lap. He was intent on the sport of attempting to hit sparrows, throwing the berries one by one up and down the street.

In spite of the very obvious sign warning them against the practice there were four hitchhikers at the top of the Jefferson street hill last evening, thumbing the way to New Wilmington.

Troop F 103rd cavalrymen will be in training at Mt. Gretna before long. The members of the troop are reminiscing about former years at Mt. Gretna. It is stiff training they get there and they always come back beter riders than when they left.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new bridge over the Mahoning river at Willow Grove. One of the concrete abutments appears to be about complete, and most of the fill for the approaches to the structure has apparently been completed.

There appears to be a larger number of cars from other states in New Castle and on the roads of this section this summer than ever before.

ANTI-ROOSEVELT FORCES UNITES TO BLOCK SELECTION

they can see 691, but they frankly do not know where the balance up to the 700 mark could be obtained.

The anti-Roosevelt forces concede Roosevelt only 570, which is just eight short of a majority.

Statement Sensational

The Smith-Hague statement was as sensational as any ever issued on the eve of a national convention. Rival candidates have been bitter in other conventions, but even at Madison Square Garden Smith did not proclaim from the housetops that his rival, Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, could not be elected if nominated.

Mayor Hague said he deemed it his duty as vice chairman of the party and as the leader of New Jersey to call to the attention of the delegates and leaders "that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, if nominated, has no chance of winning at the election in November."

"I have felt out public sentiment not alone here but in practically every state in the union," continued the Smith leader, "and I am brought to the conclusion that he cannot carry a single state east of the Mississippi and very few in the far west."

Shows Weakness.

After pointing to Roosevelt's demonstrated weakness in the primaries in the large centers of population, the statement continued:

"The Democratic party has a golden opportunity, but for the party at this time to select the weakest man before the people cannot bring the party success, nor alleviate thru such a candidate the conditions from which we are now suffering.

"It is commonly known that Republican leaders are hoping that Gov. Roosevelt will be the nominee and some have publicly expressed themselves that their only hope for victory lies in the possibility of Roosevelt becoming the candidate.

Although there was no mention of Smith's elimination in this contest, his manager's statement amounted virtually to an offer to withdraw if Roosevelt would, for further down it said:

Avocate Of Smith.

"I have always been an advocate of former Governor Smith. Entirely aside from my personal desire to see him given the leadership, I want to call attention to the fact that there is a wealth of material before the convention—Gov. Ritchie, Melvin A. Traylor, John N. Garner, Newton D. Baker, Gov. White, Gov. Murray, Senator Reed, Gov. Byrd, and Senator Lewis, any one of whom meets the present situation better than the governor of New York.

That sounded about as plainly as anything could the Smith tocsin: "Anybody but Roosevelt."

The Smith-Hague statement, of course, infuriated the Roosevelt managers and followers. Their answer to it was the immediate calling of a meeting of about fifty lieutenants and an agreement to attempt the smashing of the two-thirds nominating rule.

Unfair Play.

Moreover, they raised the cry of "unfair play." For one Democratic national leader to broadcast to the country that another is "weak and cannot win," is, they contended, giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

At the same time, however, their decision to try to abrogate the two-thirds rule is an indication of their fear that Roosevelt may never be able to reach the two-thirds grade. Otherwise they would not care to risk such a battle.

One result of the opposition's bold move was to renew the wavering determination of the Roosevelt leaders to stage a fight to put Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, their man, in the permanent chairmanship instead of Jouett Shouse, who was agreed upon months ago.

Roosevelt Forces Fearful

CHICAGO, June 24.—Leaders in the Franklin D. Roosevelt camp today, privately admitted that former Governor Alfred E. Smith and William G. McAdoo, the men who fought each other to the bitter end in 1924, stand between the New York governor and the Democratic presidential nomination.

While insisting they now have sufficient votes to abrogate the two-third rule and pave the way for nomination of the New York executive by a majority, the Roosevelt forces are fearful that Smith and McAdoo may be able to block abolition of the century old two-third rule.

If Smith goes on the convention floor, and, in a vigorous speech, withdraws as a candidate, the Roosevelt leaders are afraid he may be able to cut down their majority vote.

Divided On Many Lines

CHICAGO, June 24.—The always battling Democrats went at it on all fronts today—over candidates, rules, procedure, and policies.

The movement sponsored by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's managers for abolition of the ancient two-thirds nominating rule, created a major eruption, and divided even the Roosevelt camp itself.

The Smith-sponsored statement, issued by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, describing Franklin D. Roosevelt as "the weakest man" in the whole Democratic lisо and as the only man the Democrats cannot elect, provoked another storm. It was hotly resented by the Roosevelt people.

Opinion was badly divided over whether the Roosevelt managers can force the rules change through the convention—or whether, in the long run, they will dare attempt it for fear of causing such a bitter split that the nomination might be worthless to anyone.

The proposal itself had the effect of rallying to the defense of the century-old two-thirds rule every other candidate and his supporters.

The Anti-Roosevelt people—whether they favored Smith, Garner, Ritchie, Baker, Byrd, White, Traylor, Reed, or Murray—all had the same answer to the Roosevelt proposal.

In effect, it was this:

"To abrogate the rule is all right for the future. But you can't change the rules during the game to benefit one particular player."

As the day wore on, the division in the Roosevelt camp itself over the proposal became more and more apparent.

over, few of these who wish to return to things as they were before the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"A direct referendum would result in one thing or the other: the maintennance and enforcement of the present law or the return of conditions prevailing before the enactment of the constitutional amendment.

"The Republican party in its platform proposes to resubmit the entire question to the people but it also offers a way to avoid the evils of the liquor traffic which previously prevailed."

The principal issues of the campaign, he said, will be the record of the Hoover administration. Everyone, regardless of political affiliations, he said, is primarily interested in the welfare of the nation and in their individual welfare.

Report Meeting Of Financiers Makes Choice Of "Acceptable Nominees"

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.— Wall Street's preference for presidential candidates on the Democratic ticket was reported to have been forwarded today to leaders gathered at Chicago for the party's forthcoming convention following a meeting here of financiers.

The meeting was presided over by the head of one of the largest banks in Wall Street and closely identified with the J. P. Morgan interests. Two Morgan partners were mentioned as sitting on the board of directors of this bank.

The group was reported as having registered their approval of the following candidates, in this order: Newton D. Baker, Alfred E. Smith, Governor Ritchie, and Owen D. Young.

The meeting was said to have taken the attitude that Wall Street did not want Herbert Hoover in the White House for another term but would rather see him re-elected than have Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt win the election.

Of the 160 financiers reported attending the meeting, only 20 indicated any willingness to support financially a Democratic ticket headed by New York's governor.

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Pennsylvania's legislature, preparing today to launch a broad and effective relief movement through special session legislation, must find more than four million dollars before it even begins to counteract the new welfare needs accumulating since the last extraordinary meeting.

Summarily, the work of the last session must be completed and its deficiencies remedied before the approaching gathering can be deservingly termed a fresh attack on unemployment ills.

The decision of Attorney General William A. Schnader a few weeks ago virtually nullified the apparent benefits of the $10,000,000 Talbot relief act. All but about $375,000 of the appropriation was met by slashing previous allocations to state-aided hospitals and universities and mothers' assistance funds.

Need Four Million

This left $9,720,364 which the legislature would have to restore before any real, new relief could be extended. Later, the action of Gov. Gifford Pinchot in effecting economies of about $5,300,000 reduced that deficiency to something above $4,000,000.

Taking first place in the proposed legislative program is a bill to restore these abatements. Inclusion of the measure indicated that conferees realized that there is one job to be finished before new tasks are undertaken. When the $4,000,000 is provided, the commonwealth's economic status will be virtually the same as it was prior to the first special sesion, insofar as the imparting of any direct relief by the assembly is concerned.

Additional relief, the object of the second convocation, will start from that point.

Father's Day Will Be Noted

A program of especial interest will be given in the Sunday school of the Church of the Nazarene, West Falls street, Sunday morning, at 9:30 when Father's day will be fittingly observed.

Each father who atends the Sunday school will be presented with a favor.

Addresses will be made by Norman Thomas, candidate for president on the Socialist ticket and Jas. Maurer, assemblyman from Reading, who is the party's choice for vice president.

Grant and Lincoln avenue and cannot be seen at night.

It must have hailed somewhere in the district yesterday as the air was quite cool late Thursday afternoon and throughout the night. Blankets felt good during the night, and tin workers got a respite from the summer heat.

We shudder to think of what that little East Washington street boy probably got when his mother found out what happened to the box of strawberries! Pa Newc saw the lad sitting on the steps of his home last evening with the quart box on his lap. He was intent on the sport of attempting to hit sparrows, throwing the berries one by one up and down the street.

In spite of the very obvious sign warning them against the practice there were four hitchhikers at the top of the Jefferson street hill last evening, thumbing the way to New Wilmington.

Troop F 103rd cavalrymen will be in training at Mt. Gretna before long. The members of the troop are reminiscing about former years at Mt. Gretna. It is stiff training they get there and they always come back beter riders than when they left.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new bridge over the Mahoning river at Willow Grove. One of the concrete abutments appears to be about complete, and most of the fill for the approaches to the structure has apparently been completed.

There appears to be a larger number of cars from other states in New Castle and on the roads of this section this summer than ever before.

they can see 691, but they frankly do not know where the balance up to the 700 mark could be obtained.

The anti-Roosevelt forces concede Roosevelt only 570, which is just eight short of a majority.

Statement Sensational

The Smith-Hague statement was as sensational as any ever issued on the eve of a national convention. Rival candidates have been bitter in other conventions, but even at Madison Square Garden Smith did not proclaim from the housetops that his rival, Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, could not be elected if nominated.

Mayor Hague said he deemed it his duty as vice chairman of the party and as the leader of New Jersey to call to the attention of the delegates and leaders "that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, if nominated, has no chance of winning at the election in November."

"I have felt out public sentiment not alone here but in practically every state in the union," continued the Smith leader, "and I am brought to the conclusion that he cannot carry a single state east of the Mississippi and very few in the far west."

Shows Weakness.

After pointing to Roosevelt's demonstrated weakness in the primaries in the large centers of population, the statement continued:

"The Democratic party has a golden opportunity, but for the party at this time to select the weakest man before the people cannot bring the party success, nor alleviate thru such a candidate the conditions from which we are now suffering.

"It is commonly known that Republican leaders are hoping that Gov. Roosevelt will be the nominee and some have publicly expressed themselves that their only hope for victory lies in the possibility of Roosevelt becoming the candidate.

Although there was no mention of Smith's elimination in this contest, his manager's statement amounted virtually to an offer to withdraw if Roosevelt would, for further down it said:

Avocate Of Smith.

"I have always been an advocate of former Governor Smith. Entirely aside from my personal desire to see him given the leadership, I want to call attention to the fact that there is a wealth of material before the convention—Gov. Ritchie, Melvin A. Traylor, John N. Garner, Newton D. Baker, Gov. White, Gov. Murray, Senator Reed, Gov. Byrd, and Senator Lewis, any one of whom meets the present situation better than the governor of New York.

That sounded about as plainly as anything could the Smith tocsin: "Anybody but Roosevelt."

The Smith-Hague statement, of course, infuriated the Roosevelt managers and followers. Their answer to it was the immediate calling of a meeting of about fifty lieutenants and an agreement to attempt the smashing of the two-thirds nominating rule.

Unfair Play.

Moreover, they raised the cry of "unfair play." For one Democratic national leader to broadcast to the country that another is "weak and cannot win," is, they contended, giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

At the same time, however, their decision to try to abrogate the two-thirds rule is an indication of their fear that Roosevelt may never be able to reach the two-thirds grade. Otherwise they would not care to risk such a battle.

One result of the opposition's bold move was to renew the wavering determination of the Roosevelt leaders to stage a fight to put Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, their man, in the permanent chairmanship instead of Jouett Shouse, who was agreed upon months ago.

Roosevelt Forces Fearful

CHICAGO, June 24.—Leaders in the Frankln D. Roosevelt camp today privately admitted that former Governor Alfred E. Smith and William G. McAdoo, the men who fought each other to the bitter end in 1924, stand between the New York governor and the Democratic presidential nomination.

While insisting they now have sufficient votes to abrogate the two-third rule and pave the way for nomination of the New York executive by a majority, the Roosevelt forces are fearful that Smith and McAdoo may be able to block abolition of the century old two-third rule.

If Smith goes on the convention floor, and, in a vigorous speech, withdraws as a candidate, the Roosevelt leaders are afraid he may be able to cut down their majority vote.

Divided On Many Lines

CHICAGO, June 24.—The always battling Democrats went at it on all fronts today—over candidates, rules, procedure, and policies.

The movement sponsored by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's managers for abolition of the ancient two-thirds nominating rule, created a major eruption, and divided even the Roosevelt camp itself.

The Smith-sponsored statement, issued by Mayor Frank Hauge of Jersey City, describing Franklin D. Roosevelt as "the weakest man" in the whole Democratic liso and as the only man the Democrats cannot elect, provoked another storm. It was hotly resented by the Roosevelt people.

Opinion was badly divided over whether the Roosevelt managers can force the rules change through the convention—or whether, in the long run, they will dare attempt it for fear of causing such a bitter split that the nomination might be worthless to anyone.

The proposal itself had the effect of rallying to the defense of the century-old two-thirds rule every other candidate and his supporters.

The Anti-Roosevelt people—whether they favored Smith, Garner, Ritchie, Baker, Byrd, White, Traylor, Reed, or Murray—all had the same answer to the Roosevelt proposal.

In effect, it was this:

"To abrogate the rule is all right for the future. But you can't change the rules during the game to benefit one particular player."

As the day wore on, the division in the Roosevelt camp itself over the proposal became more and more apparent.

ever, few of these who wish to return to things as they were before the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"A direct referendum would result in one thing or the other: the maintenance and enforcement of the present law or the return of conditions prevailing before the enactment of the constitutional amendment.

"The Republican party in its platform proposes to resubmit the entire question to the people but it also offers a way to avoid the evils of the liquor traffic which previously prevailed."

The principal issues of the campaign, he said, will be the record of the Hoover administration. Everyone, regardless of political affiliations, he said, is primarily interested in the welfare of the nation and in their individual welfare.

Baker Favored By Wall Street

Report Meeting Of Financiers Makes Choice Of "Acceptable Nominees"

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.— Wall Street's preference for presidential candidates on the Democratic ticket was reported to have been forwarded today to leaders gathered at Chicago for the party's forthcoming convention following a meeting here of financiers.

The meeting was presided over by the head of one of the largest banks in Wall Street and closely identified with the J. P. Morgan interests. Two Morgan partners were mentioned as sitting on the board of directors of this bank.

The group was reported as having registered their approval of the following candidates, in this order: Newton D. Baker, Alfred E. Smith, Governor Ritchie, and Owen D. Young.

The meeting was said to have taken the attitude that Wall Street did not want Herbert Hoover in the White House for another term but would rather see him re-elected than have Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt win the election.

Of the 160 financiers reported attending the meeting, only 20 indicated any willingness to support financially a Democratic ticket headed by New York's governor.

The house measure provides a billion dollars and the senate a billion and a half for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, but the Garner bill gives the board wide discretion while the Wagner bill restricts loans to self-liquidating projects of public or semi-public bodies.

The Wagner bill provides a bond issue of $500,000,000 for federal public works, $200,000,000 of which has already been provided in appropriation bills. The Garner program provides for a $1,200,000,000 federal public works program to be financed by a one-fourth of one cent a gallon tax on gasoline.

Local Club Pilgrimages To Canfield O., Gardens

With ideal weather, members of the Garden club felt more than fortunate in choosing Wednesday for motoring to the homes of Mrs. Herman Brandmiller, located near Canfield, O., where they went on a pilgrimage through her flower garden, and that of Mrs. Willis H. Warner just across the road, who, too, has a marvelous yard of trees and shrubbery.

The party left New Castle at 1:15 from the residence of Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger on Laurel boulevard, six cars being filled to capacity. Mrs. Brandmiller, a most charming person, started the pilgrimage at the "Bird Sanctuary", a shady spot on their 35-acre property surrounded by choice locust trees where wild birds have made their nests. She gave very interesting talks on the many varieties of flowers blooming and shrubbery as well. Mrs. Brandmiller answered numerous questions most satisfactorily and went into detail on many rare specimens she has collected. She was ably assisted in entertaining throughout the afternoon by her daughter, Miss Maude Janet Brandmiller. Cooling refreshments were served the guests while there.

When she had concluded her pilgrimage, all went to the home of Mrs. Warner, who, too, is known for her garden ability. In her yard was found an array of trees and shrubbery, perfectly arranged. She explained the different varieties which surrounded her home.

The outstanding features on the Brandmiller grounds were the rock gardens and the novel natural rock "bird bath" with flowers of pastel shades entwined.

During the visit Mrs. W. C. With ideal weather, members of the Garden club felt more than fortunate in choosing Wednesday for motoring to the homes of Mrs. Herman Brandmiller, located near Canfield, O., where they went on a pilgrimage through her flower garden, and that of Mrs. Willis H. Warner just across the road, who, too, has a marvelous yard of trees and shrubbery.

The party left New Castle at 1:15 from the residence of Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger on Laurel boulevard, six cars being filled to capacity. She was ably assisted in entertaining throughout the afternoon by her daughter, Miss Maude Janet Brandmiller. Cooling refreshments were served the guests while there.

When she had concluded her pilgrimage, all went to the home of Mrs. Warner, who, too, is known for her garden ability. In her yard was found an array of trees and shrubbery, perfectly arranged. She explained the different varieties which surrounded her home.

SCENIC WONDERS OF U. S.

SOME of the best scenery in the world is in Alaska. Mount McKinley seen from the plains is in a class with Everest. Nowhere are there more magnificent glaciers, and nowhere except in Norway can one match the famous inside passage.

Few American tourists have seen these glories, or are even aware of them. When they think of mountain scenery, they think of the Alps. Yet the mountains of Switzerland are pygmies beside the snowy crests of the Alaskan ranges, and the glaciers around Mount Blanc are tiny scraps of white compared with the blazing expanses of Alaskan ice fields.

Thousands of Americans are booking passage for Europe this year to go in search of scenic wonders and beauties their own country can excel. They go because they don't know America or because going abroad is "quite the thing."

But the traveler isn't solely to blame. The Alps have been advertised the world over for generations. Alaska has no press agent. The Alps have been commercialized. The Alaskan ranges have not been brought out of the wilderness. And touring America, while hundreds of thousands are doing it, has not been made the social and intellectual accomplishment attributed to foreign travel by those who have been "across" and by those engaged in the profitable business of bridging the Atlantic for them.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S PRAISE OF ADVERTISING

It is significant that the sessions of the convention of the Advertising Federation of America should have been opened with an address of truth and fair dealing in business.

And it is equally significant that the President of the United States should have regarded the occasion as important enough to merit a special greeting from the White House. Mr. Hoover put the matter strongly when he declared that "advertising has come to be such a vital force in our highly complex mechanism of production and distribution that it is most important that those responsible for its conduct be leaders in courage and enterprise."

In view of this it was not surprising that the head of the Nation should have wished the delegates success in their deliberations. It goes without saying that, if the men who handle the advertising of the country are prosperous, the country itself will have its share of prosperity.

Gilbert T. Hodges, president of the organization, believes one of the ways out of the present depression is by honest and intelligent advertising. The stimulation of normal buying on the part of those who still have incomes is the most essential thing needed for business recovery. "True, buying power has shrunk," he declared, "but so have prices. In spite of lowered wages and returns from investments, a great many of us can still buy as many goods as we did before, but we are not doing it."

These words have more than ordinary value because they come from an organization that has done wonders in raising the standards of advertising in this country. They have demonstrated in a practical way that honesty is actually the best policy. They have proved that the old saying is more than a copy book proverb. The advertising business is not yet perfect, but it is good to know that only a minority of those who advertise are backsliders from the now generally accepted principles.

Whatever means may be taken by the Federation to increase the present volume of advertising will be in the nature of a public service, because every step forward in that direction will bring us that much nearer to norm al business conditions.

THE TROUBLE WITH STUNTS

No one can deny that when Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam landed in Gallagher's meadow that something was gained for Mrs. Putnam. She won world esteem. The feat showed that what was done before could be done again, and focussed the attention of aviation anew upon crossing the Atlantic.

The science of flying needs a certain romantic stimulus from time to time, as well as the knowledge gained from strictly scientific investigations. A regrettable feature about any sort of stunt flying, however, is that a number of amateurs or persons lacking a combination of gifts necessary for success are beguiled into making an ocean attempt. It takes more than a good flier to cross the Atlantic. He or she must be a splendid flier plus. It does not appear that Mrs. Putnam is the scientific engineer that Colonel Lindbergh is, but she was sufficiently the darling of the gods to make a perfect landing among Mr. Gallagher's cows, in Ireland.

It means far more for aviation that passengers and mail service is being carried on constantly on established routes over various parts of the United States. Commercial pilots, with a record of ten years' flying without a serious accident, run into impressive numbers. Patrons of the air service who use these lines frequently are so impressed by the clockwork precision of the service, that they have no fear, and are enthusiastic supporters of air transportation.

Many people have wondered why Lindbergh has not made a second attempt to fly the Atlantic. That he has not bespeaks in him a fine common sense. Some one had to be the first to fly the Atlantic, but only a fool would take such a risk the second time, when the first flight had completed for science everything that he set out to do. The American people and the world would far rather see the Colonel, who is more scientist than mechanic, burying his recent sorrow through work in experimental work at the Rockefeller institute for Medical Research than to see him attempt anything in the nature of a stunt flight.

All pioneer efforts in the air begin as stunts, and are then followed by efforts to establish regular and useful lines of transportation. The loss of life in stunt flying over the oceans is so high in proportion to the number starting that it should be discouraged.

All Of Us

I Stole Fifty Cents
And Forgot It
And Never Paid It

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The things we have done or have forgotten to do are like small stinging insects that never forget us.

They light on our necks and sting us and then go swiftly away on trips around the world. We think they are gone forever, but sooner or later they come back to give us another stinging. Probably we deserve it, but it's not the most comfortable experience in the world.

Yesterday I passed a vacant store. It was a melancholy little spectacle, but it was something else that made me stop. That little store was familiar to me. It was bound up somewhere inside of me, with the stinging of a conscience. Standing there, I remembered that in this little store, years ago, I stole 50 cents. Of course, I didn't intend to steal it. That came afterwards, but it was a theft just the same.

It was late in the afternoon and I need pliers or a chisel or some other small tool. I forget just what. I rushed downtown and came to a little hardware store. A nice old fellow sold me the tool, but when I reached for my money I found I had left it at home. . . . I didn't have time to go back and get it. So the old fellow said that would be all right; I could take the tool and pay him some other day. . . . Well, I never did pay him. I forgot it entirely. Perhaps he did, too. I hope so. Or perhaps he did remember and was cautious forever afterward about trusting strangers who'd forgotten their money. . . . I don't know about that. But he was a pleasant old man and he may not have held my delinquency against other people.

Six months ago it would not have been too late. He was still in business then. I had plenty of opportunity to make amends. But I didn't remember until it was too late entirely. . . . Now the old man is dead. I inquired around and learned that fact. He lived so long that he was all alone when he died, owing nobody a cent. But I owed him 50 cents and for me that's a pity, and I'm ashamed of it.

But I'll not be getting off easily. I'll pay that 50 cents in various ways. I'll wince whenever I pass that spot. I'll regret. I'll be sorry it's too late. . . . That winged insect will sting me and sting me and force me to dedicate more than one 50-cent piece in compensation for my theft and to the memory of that smiling, trustful old man.

Just Folks

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

If I remember rightly, anyone a cheer could raise.
By speaking with affection of the vanished good old days.
In the times when we'd turned lavish are the market fell so low,
We boasted rather proudly of the joys we used to know.
And we talked our boyhood over, and we wondered if again
We'd ever know the gladness and the thrill of 'way back then.

Those were days when boys sold papers and ran errands for a dime,
When a dollar was a fortune and to waste one seemed a crime;
Those were days we worked all summer for a bicycle or gun,
But all that we remembered of our hardships was the fun.
We had come to linen collars, motor cars and foolish ways,
And seemed anxious that our children shouldn't know those "good old days."

Now we're wailing in our anguish that the good old days are gone.
There are mighty tasks before us and some mightier following on.
Now our boys are running errands for their nickels and their dimes,
And a dollar seems important in these strange, eventful times.
Hearts and minds by care are sobered, though the pain has been severe.
For our children, let's remember, that those "good old days" are here.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

YOUTH IS GAY

It is natural for happy young people to laugh and have a good time.

During a recent trip a number of college girls boarded a fast train at a college town.

They had with them a small phonograph.

They had a compartment and kept operating that phonograph, steadily.

Two men and a woman in the lounge disgusted other passengers by their complaints and garrulous remarks.

They disturbed the other traveling folk much more, with their ill-natured remarks than the tunes reeling from the phonograph.

Evidently smiles and laughter had meant little in their lives.

If they were parents, doubtless they have complained often that their children spend so little time at home.

High-spirited, healthy, care-free youth—that is what you would find where is mirth, outbursts of laughter, dancing and romping, but you can't attract youth with scowls and frowns.

Many parents drive their children from their homes literally.

It matters not how beautiful a home, if youth is not permitted the freedom to express its life and exuberance in the home, it goes elsewhere.

PORTLAND, ORE. TAXES VEHICLE POSTERS

The joint efforts of the newspapers and the Advertising Club of Portland, Ore., were recently responsible for the enactment of a city ordinance requiring taxicabs and delivery trucks carrying any sort of advertising display to pay a license of $5 a year and placing a tax of $10 a day on vehicles operated solely for advertising purposes. The only tax-exempt advertising on vehicles is that of the owner of the vehicle or advertising for which the vehicle owner receives no compensation.

The ordinance, Editor & Publisher has been informed, has discouraged Portland taxicabs from soliciting advertising and has brought considerable revenue to the city from the American Express Company, whose trucks carry national advertising billboards. All vehicle owners must apply for a special license if they want to carry advertising, and a section of the ordinance applying to vehicles operated solely for advertising purposes requires the owner to designate his routes.

In the case of this type of vehicle, if it is to enter the metropolitan traffic district, the proposed route must be submitted to the chief of police for approval before the license is issued. Editor and Publisher.

Republican Plank On Liquor Is Interpreted In Many Ways

Both Wet And Dry Gains Attested By Various Sections Of Public While Judgment That It Is A Straddle Has Support

Attempts to appraise the plank on prohibition adopted by the Republican national convention show a wide range to opinions. Differing comments give the victory to wets or drys according to individual judgment, while there are charges that the party utterance is a straddle. Emphasis is placed on the fact that, if liquor control were placed with the states, the plank still would provide some national jurisdiction.

"Though designed as a see-saw between water and strong drink, it is decidedly tipsy toward the latter," in the opinion of the ATLANTA JOURNAL (Dem.), while the RUTLAND HERALD (Ind. Rep.) concludes that it "was written with the view of satisfying both sides of the controversy and, as inevitably follows with such an effort, it must fail to satisfy either." The SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW (Rep.) holds that, with its "adequate protection of the dry states," the plank "will be generally satisfactory to wet and dry Republicans." The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD (Ind. Dem.) feels that "it must appear to the drys that they have been subjected to a humiliating defeat within the party they regarded as their own," and that "they are cast out into the world, orphans without a party home." The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS (Ind. Dem.) suggests that the plank "does not settle the question," and advises that "incomparably more important problems challenge the nation's thought and demand constructive action."

"The plank clearly paves the way for a change in the method of handling the liquor question," in the opinion of the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS (Ind.), while the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS (Ind. Rep.) thinks that "in the final analysis, much depends upon the way the plank is interpreted for the process of reform," and the DES MOINES TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) contends that "those honest and intelligent advocates of a change from the present conditions who are neither moved by a passion for hooch nor by doctrinaire notions, have reason to be satisfied." The CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL (Ind. Rep.) sees is as "the greatest triumph yet won by the advocates of change," with the added comment: "Details of what form the resubmission question shall take are of minor worth in a platform declaration, since they must be the work of congress."

The action of the convention is called "sensible" by the GARY POST-TRIBUNE (Ind.): "pretty good, though in wording it is terrible," by the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR (Rep.); "a platform that faces conditions, not one that evades them," by the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL (Rep.); "pompous but empty words, strung out into nebulous phrases," by the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL (Ind. Rep.); and an example of "memorizing, solely in the hope that they would please enough persons of all shades of opinion to carry a majority vote at the election," by the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE (Ind. Dem.). The MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS (Ind. Dem.) offers the opinion as to the method adopted for making a change in the liquor law: "There is only one proper approach to a solution. That is to submit to the people of the several states, acting, possibly, through conventions called for the single purpose, the question of retention or repeal. Once the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, it will be time then for consideration of a substitute."

"The plank was not within the bounds of expectation," says the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.), "but it is of a constructive character and a definite proposal on which to focus discussion, where there has heretofore been nothing definite offered to remedy the general complainings of the inefficiency of the existing formula of federal prohibition. Whether or not the plan recommended by the Republicans at Chicago is approved, the convention is to be credited with having submitted a plan and the pleadings in its favor will stand until they are disproved, or a better plan is offered."

"It means," according to the NEW YORK SUN (Ind.), "that it pledges the Republican party to keep bribery and corruption spread across the wet states by maintaining a federal snooping system. The only merit of the plank is its declaration that any change in the Eighteenth Amendment should be submitted to state conventions. Otherwise it is a pitiful example of ducking and dodging. It is described as having been drawn by 'friends of the president.' His enemies could have written nothing more damaging, at least so far as Mr. Hoover's fortunes in the east on election day are concerned. His only hope in anti-prohibition territory is that the Democrats will be imbued with the cowardice shown by the Republicans."

Declaring that the plank is a "straddle" or compromise on the subject is made by the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES (Ind.), the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE (Rep.), the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM (Ind. Dem.), the SCRANTON TIMES (Dem.), and the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS (Dem.) while the CHATTANOOGA TIMES (Dem.) and the NEWARK EVENING NEWS (Ind.) call it obscure. The ALTOONA MIRROR (Ind.), however, concludes that "in the extremely difficult task of attempting to please both the wets and the drys, the platform builders probably made as good a job of it as could have been expected." The COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE (Dem.) states that the convention "sidestepped the prohibition issue," while the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS (Ind.) advises the public "to think it over and to compare it with what the Democratic party will offer."

"It may be termed comparatively dry, although a few years ago an identical plank would have been construed as radically wet," thinks the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL (Ind. Rep.), while the NEW YORK TIMES (Ind.) asks: "If this is not repeal of the 18th amendment, what is it?" The SALT LAKE CITY DESERET NEWS (Ind.) avers that "the drys are greatly disappointed." The LYNCHBURG NEWS (Dem.) sees evidence that "if amendment is adopted, those states wishing to be dry may be dry and those wishing to be wet may be wet, but there shall be no saloons if congress prohibits their establishment. If that, as Daniel A. Poling states, is something more pleasing to the drys than to the wets the drys have greatly lowered their ideals—they have become moist, have become what a few months ago would have been denounced by the anti-saloonists as wringing wet."

Victory for both sides is seen by the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.), with the further comment: "The wets triumphed in forcing an unwilling administration to concede that some change in the application of constitutional prohibition is imperatively demanded by the voters and that such states as may so vote shall be permitted to take themselves out from under the amendment. The drys, however, won the greater need of success in securing the adoption of the 'administration' plank, which would perpetuate federal control of the liquor traffic even in states which hereafter may vote wet, that would leave the issue the football of future congresses."

WELL PLAYED

A well known baseball reporter, who frequently described a game in verse, died of cancer some years ago. In a drawer in his bedroom were found the following verses:

The doctor knows what his trained eyes see.
And he says it's the last of the ninth for me;
One more swing while the clouds loom dark,
And then I'll leave this noisy park.

Good plays, bad plays, and plays pell mell.
The speed of it burned my years away.
But I thank the good God he let me play.

International Action Seen As Only Relief For World In Its Economic Distress

By VISCOUNT GREY
Former English Foreign Secretary

It is only international action that can relieve the world from its economic distress. I wish that there were more signs of the practical application of that.

No country not excepting Great Britain, is prepared at this moment to take international rather than national action, or to co-operate in diagnosing the cause of the distress which is afflicting the whole world, and to grapple with it. But adversity is a great teacher, and I trust that the lessons of adversity are going to penetrate into the international politics of the world.

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., June 24.—Eight senior boys in a local high school were forced to take an extra examination because one of their number knew more about locks than social problems.

School officials ordered the re-examination after the boy picked a lock in a closet and obtained advance copies of the social problems examination. He and his companions all passed but their work went for naught.

Although declining to reveal the name of the guilty youth, high school officials said he had recently devised a new type of lock which he is about to patent.

Spitale And Bitz "Marked For Death"

Former Emissaries Of Colonel Lindbergh Were Associated With Late Higgins

Gunmen Intended To Kill Higgins, Spitale And Bitz At Same Time

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 24.—Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, underworld emissaries of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh in the fruitless search for his kidnaped baby, were slated to be bumped off with Vannie Higgins, Brooklyn rumrunner king.

Police Thursday received information that the killing of Higgins was part of a triangular murder plot by New Jersey rum runners who suspected Higgins, Spitale and Bitz of hijacking liquor on the coast.

The triple assassination plan outrivaled the St. Valentine day massacre of a squad of gangsters in Chicago and the baby-killing raid in New York attributed by police to the mob of the late Vincent "Babyface" Coll.

Plans Foiled.

The three-on-a-spot program called for killing Higgins, Spitale and Bitz as they came out of a dance recital in which the daughters of Higgins and Spitale were partaking.

The orders were to "get" the trio, regardless of women and children in the crowd, according to police.

Higgins was shot down virtually in the midst of his family as he came out of the dance recital building.

Spitale, questioned by police today, said that he believed he and Bitz unwittingly escaped the gunmen because they left earlier than Higgins and took a taxicab instead of Spitale's automobile.

Secretary Lewis Announces Annual Clean-up Is Under Way

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Clean-up of illegal roadside advertising staged annually by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is under way and will continue until July 15, Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis announced today.

The campaign is directed against small cardboard, cloth, tin, steel and wood signs, commonly called "snipe" signs. The large posters erected under lease and the authority of land owners are not disturbed.

Activity during the campaign is confined to roadside outside the corporate limits of cities and boroughs, but signs attached to the department's official markers will be removed at any time.

Secretary Lewis calls attention to the regulations restricting erection of advertising signs throughout the state system of highways.

1. No advertising permitted within right-of-way of state highways.
2. Permission of property owners is necessary for erection of signs on private ground.
3. It is not permissible to imitate official signs or markers of the Highway Department.
4. No signs are permitted (on private ground) to obstruct dangerously the driver's vision at curves or intersections.

In former years the clean-up campaign has resulted in removal of more than 30,000 illegal pieces of advertising.

Synod Sessions To Close Today

Many Matters Of Church Interest Taken Up Thursday; College Appropriations Made

GROVE CITY, June 24.—In a spirited session Thursday the Pennsylvania Synod of the Presbyterian church endorsed the report of the Christian Education board, read by Dr. D. T. Scott, containing an approval of the eighteenth amendment remaining on the statute books. They followed this by passing a resolution calling for a program of education on the merits of prohibition from the pulpits of the 1146 churches of the synod.

The same report carried appropriations to colleges of the denomination in Pennsylvania totalling $43,665 for the year. The amounts are divided as follows: Beaver College, $4,000; Lafayette, $3500; Waynesburg $5000; Wilson, $3500; Grove City, $4500; Washington-Jefferson $1000; Penn State, $4365; University of Pennsylvania $3500; Carnegie Tech $1800, the better known of the schools benefitted.

Elizabeth Parry of Slatington won the synod stewardship oratorical contest and was awarded the prize of $25; to Everett Ferguson of Apollo the second prize of $15 was awarded.

Dr. J. H. Lee of Germantown, chairman of the judicial committee, made a plea for the dropping of the Rev. Donald G. Barnhouse controversy. By order of the synod judicial commission Barnhouse had been admonished by the Philadelphia Presbytery for alleged remarks as a fundamentalist concerning the opinions of liberals. A bill of $1368 for the cost of trial of Barnhouse, on which there is a dispute, between synod and the presbytery, was referred to the general council for adjudication.

Are you handicapped at the office?

To put in a full day's work, you need a full man's strength. A man, half-sick from constipation, has less chance to succeed in today's keen competition.

This insidious condition often causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the edge from your working hours.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs — so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Boy Prowler Who Was Shot Is Identified

Father Indentifies Lad Who Was Killed As Suspected Burglar

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 24—A 14 year old boy's body, shot here early Thursday as a suspected burglar, lay unidentified in the local morgue until late Thursday afternoon, when the lad's father hearing of the tragedy suspected it might be his son and went to the morgue to claim the body.

The slain lad, William Harver was shot by Arnold Gartner, after the lad tried to open the window in a house owned by Sam Davis, father-in-law of Gartner.

Gartner told police that Harver and several other boys prowled around the Davis home for several minutes about an hour after midnight and then disappeared to Mill Creek park nearby. About a half hour later the boys returned. Gartner said he was awakened by the boys returning to the Davis home which is across the street from his house and went to get his shotgun.

He fired a load of buckshot at the boys and hit young Farver in the arms and face with about 50 slugs. The lad was taken to the Southside unit of Youngstown hospital, but died a few minutes later.

Gartner reported the shooting to police and was questioned by Detectives today. He was released but may be called back for questioning.

The slain boy's father, John Harver, said William and his brother Tommy, 12, left home after supper Wednesday night to play ball and did not return. The father reports he has had a great deal of trouble with these two boys. He said William has been in the Mahoning county detention home several times for running away, while Tommy had only recently returned from reform school.

"What We Have Learned From Genesis"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

We know that to them that love God all things work together for good, even to them that are called according to his purpose.—Rom. 8:28.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The international uniform lesson for June 26 is the quarterly review lesson covering 12 lessons in Genesis, the Golden Text being Romans 8:28, "We know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose.")

"Genesis," means "beginning" and the Book of Genesis gives us the beginning of all things in heaven and earth, with the exception of God, who is eternal. Of Him it says in its magnificent opening sentence, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

That Bible's chief purpose in relating the story of creation is not to tell the how or the when or the how long of the origin of this universe, but rather to tell the who and the why, and to lead men to know that all things are God-given and the outgrowth in power and wisdom of a divine love which could not contain itself, but must give expression to itself in other beings, made in the divine image and likeness and capable of communion with God. God made man a worshiping being with a moral nature capable of choosing right from wrong, that man's righteousness and virtue might not be mechanical or forced but of free choice.

But man fell into sin of his own free will, and failed God in the one and only point wherein his freedom was tested. Thus human sin had its beginning. It was the prostitution of liberty to selfish aims in defiance of God's clearly defined will. With it came death, which is ever the wages of sin. But with it also came the beginning of the gospel of divine grace, in the promime of the Saviour, who, as the "seed of the woman would bruise the serpent's head." So, from the very beginning, "Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound."

The Beginning of Israel.

God's plans having been thwarted in the beginnings He made with Adam and again with Noah through the persistent sinfulness of their descendants, He began a new plan with Abram. This plan was to choose a select race and develop that chosen people as the channel through which divine grace could be made known to all nations. Thus Abram was called from Ur of Chaldea to be the father of a spiritual race.

The Beginning of the Jewish Nation.

Under Joseph we see the beginning of the Jewish race as a nation. The patriarchal family of Jacob develops under the discipline of four centuries of bondage in Egypt into a mighty people before whom is constantly kept the hope of emancipation and return to their own land. To this end Joseph commanded that his bones be not buried in Egypt, but prepared in a coffin ready for the nation's departure. So the book ends with the word "in a coffin in Egypt." That coffin symbolized the nation's hope of emancipation. Its return is told in Exodus, which is our study in the lessons that follow.

Lava Once Poured Over Missouri, Professor Finds

(International News Service)

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 24—After several years' research Prof. W. A. Tarr, University of Missouri geologist announces he has discovered that at one time great quantities of lava were pouring over Missouri.

Far back in the earth's history, Prof. Tarr says, before the land surface was covered by grasses and trees and long before any but the lower forms of life had appeared, lavas worked their way up through the earth's crust in many places in the central part of North America.

Southeastern Missouri was one of these places.

The lavas in Missouri were different from those coming from volcanoes today, Prof. Tarr says. These lavas broke through the crust along joints in the rocks, miles in extent, and spread out over the land surface in the great floods of hot, boiling liquid rock. Spreading, the upper part cooled and as the flow moved on this crust broke up into blocks of all sizes and shapes.

More lava later came up from below, acording to Prof. Tarr and poured over and buried the earlier flows, making a thickness of hundreds and thousands of feet of these igneous rocks.

Chief Of Police John F. Haven Issues Warning To Those Doing So

"We find," said Chief of Police John F. Haven today "that there are quite a number of motorists, especially the younger drivers, who instead of appreciating the left hand turn privilege extended them at Mercer street, are taking advantage of the situation and creating a condition that is interfering with traffic.

"The abuse of the privilege consists of motorists, who are in a hurry going no place in particular, crowding in ahead of other traffic in making the turn, interfering with those who have prior rights at the crossings and actually endangering lives and property.

"We do not propose to put up with this action of drivers, who are no doubt convinced that they are doing something smart and if it continues, will place an officer there to get those who act in this manner. Any arrested on a charge of this character will be punished to the fullest extent.

Lightning Bolt Prints Tree On Man

Flash Makes Perfect Picture Of Tree On Body Of Dead Man

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 24— An almost perfect picture of a tree, showing branches and leaves, was imprinted on the chest of one of two men killed by a bolt of lightning here.

Physicians and scientists marveled at the phenomenon, discovered by Dr. Richard D. Burke, coroner's physician, on the body of Jack Welsh.

Officials of the X-ray and radium departments of the Philadelphia General hospital gave the following explanation:

If the lightning bolt had first struck a tree, the electricity must have been discharged in equal density from all parts of the tree just before striking Welsh's body. Thus, the paths of the charge were focalized and the small image of the tree burned on the body.

Authorities were unable to recall any similar instance.

Fixes New Policy To Release Game

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Careful allocation according to county needs and a stricter supervision in distributing game for restocking purposes were decided upon at a recent meeting of the Board of Game commissioners.

Under the new system the commission will allocate, upon advice from the division game supervisors, the amount of game necessary to replenish their districts. The supervisors will designate the amount of game allocated to each county.

Commission members feel that the new method will prove the most practical as the field officers must keep careful records of areas depleted of game.

Under the new plan game will not be sent directly to individuals for them to release but will be under constant supervision of field officers. Such officers will make sure that the game is released in proper localities and on areas open to public hunting. Game furnished by the commission may not be released upon ground posted against trespassing.

Has New Method Of Proving Death

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 24.—Assuring news comes for a large number of the living who spend their days in fear of being buried alive by way of an article recently published in the review, "Il Policlinico", by an Italian doctor.

He recommends a very simple way of proving death which he believes can never fail. It consists of the deformability of the pupil of the eye by outside pressure. The pupil becomes oval in form under the pressure of two fingers, and triangular when three are applied.

This deformation of the pupil is never obtained while the person is still alive, affirms this scientist, and even the subject who is apparently in a dying state shows no signs of this pupillary change until every bit of life is extinct.

they are Milder!

This means Chesterfields aren't harsh. It means they're not strong or heavy.

Early in the day or late at night you'll find that Chesterfields are always pleasing. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

What's more they taste better, too. That's it . . . milder and better taste. These are the two outstanding merits of Chesterfield.

Plus . . . a third important advantage. Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink . . . as pure as science can make them.

Unemployed Find Work, Nuggets As Prospectors

(International News Service)

BAKER, Ore., June 24.—Hundreds of unemployed men are finding work and gold in the Baker county hills of eastern Oregon with the advent of warm weather and plenty of water for placer mining.

The rush of prospectors to the hills this spring is greater than any of recent years.

It is estimated that approximately $5,000 in placer gold is being sent to the mint from Baker county monthly with a dozen or more prospectors coming in daily with their vials of dust and nuggets.

In addition to the staking of claims in the unorganized districts, many old workings are being opened for operation on a big scale.

Thus far no startling strikes have been made but nearly all are finding enough pay dirt to make the labor worth while during the present period of unemployment.

Chief Of Police John F. Haven Issues Warning To Those Doing So

"We find," said Chief of Police John F. Haven today "that there are quite a number of motorists, especially the younger drivers, who instead of appreciating the left hand turn privilege extended them at Mercer street, are taking advantage of the situation and creating a condition that is interfering with traffic.

"The abuse of the privilege consists of motorists, who are in a hurry going no place in particular, crowding in ahead of other traffic in making the turn, interfering with those who have prior rights at the crossings and actually endangering lives and property.

"We do not propose to put up with this action of drivers, who are no doubt convinced that they are doing something smart and if it continues, will place an officer there to get those who act in this manner. Any arrested on a charge of this character will be punished to the fullest extent.

Lightning Bolt Prints Tree On Man

Flash Makes Perfect Picture Of Tree On Body Of Dead Man

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 24— An almost perfect picture of a tree, showing branches and leaves, was imprinted on the chest of one of two men killed by a bolt of lightning here.

Physicians and scientists marveled at the phenomenon, discovered by Dr. Richard D. Burke, coroner's physician, on the body of Jack Welsh.

Officials of the X-ray and radium departments of the Philadelphia General hospital gave the following explanation:

If the lightning bolt had first struck a tree, the electricity must have been discharged in equal density from all parts of the tree just before striking Welsh's body. Thus, the paths of the charge were focalized and the small image of the tree burned on the body.

Authorities were unable to recall any similar instance.

Fixes New Policy To Release Game

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Careful allocation according to county needs and a stricter supervision in distributing game for restocking purposes were decided upon at a recent meeting of the Board of Game commissioners.

Under the new system the commission will allocate, upon advice from the division game supervisors, the amount of game necessary to replenish their districts. The supervisors will designate the amount of game allocated to each county.

Commission members feel that the new method will prove the most practical as the field officers must keep careful records of areas depleted of game.

Under the new plan game will not be sent directly to individuals for them to release but will be under constant supervision of field officers. Such officers will make sure that the game is released in proper localities and on areas open to public hunting. Game furnished by the commission may not be released upon ground posted against trespassing.

Has New Method Of Proving Death

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 24.—Assuring news comes for a large number of the living who spend their days in fear of being buried alive by way of an article recently published in the review, "Il Policlinico", by an Italian doctor.

He recommends a very simple way of proving death which he believes can never fail. It consists of the deformability of the pupil of the eye by outside pressure. The pupil becomes oval in form under the pressure of two fingers, and triangular when three are applied.

This deformation of the pupil is never obtained while the person is still alive, affirms this scientist, and even the subject who is apparently in a dying state shows no signs of this pupillary change until every bit of life is extinct.

No Question About It

they are Milder!

This means Chesterfields aren't harsh. It means they're not strong or heavy.

Early in the day or late at night you'll find that Chesterfields are always pleasing. They are mild and yet they satisfy.

What's more they taste better, too. That's it . . . milder and better taste. These are the two outstanding merits of Chesterfield.

Plus . . . a third important advantage. Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink . . . as pure as science can make them.

Unemployed Find Work, Nuggets As Prospectors

(International News Service)

BAKER, Ore., June 24.—Hundreds of unemployed men are finding work and gold in the Baker county hills of eastern Oregon with the advent of warm weather and plenty of water for placer mining.

The rush of prospectors to the hills this spring is greater than any of recent years.

It is estimated that approximately $5,000 in placer gold is being sent to the mint from Baker county monthly with a dozen or more prospectors coming in daily with their vials of dust and nuggets.

In addition to the staking of claims in the unorganized districts, many old workings are being opened for operation on a big scale.

Thus far no startling strikes have been made but nearly all are finding enough pay dirt to make the labor worth while during the present period of unemployment.

JAPANESE PLANES BOMBARD CHINESE FORCES

Japanese Open Aerial Attack On General Ma

REPORT 100 ARE KILLED IN BATTLE

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARBIN, Manchuria, June 24—A Japanese flying corps today began a heavy aerial attack upon the forces of General Ma Chan-Shan, dropping scores of bombs in an attempt to capture the Manchukuo governments's most antagonizing rebel leader.

It was rumored here that General Ma, a Chinese commander who for a time professed allegiance to the independent Manchurian government, had been wounded or killed in heavy bombing of the village of Li Chin-Tun, between Hailun and Koshan.

Report 100 Killed

It was known 100 were killed in the attack, one of several in the northern districts.

The Japanese were strengthening their drive against the northern rebels by rushing cavalry forces to the front. One unit, direct from Japan, arrived at Tsitsihar and rushed on to Koshan to join in the effort to capture General Ma.

The rebel leader has been pushing southward lately, supposedly in an attempt to obtain food and ammunition from the Heilung-Kiang army of the Manchukuo government which was reported to be wavering in allegiance to the young state.

JAPANESE PLANES BOMBARD CHINESE FORCES

Japanese Open Aerial Attack On General Ma

REPORT 100 ARE KILLED IN BATTLE

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAILBIN, Manchuria, June 24—A Japanese flying corps today began a heavy aerial attack upon the forces of General Ma Chan-Shan, dropping scores of bombs in an attempt to capture the Manchukuo governments's most antagonizing rebel leader.

It was rumored here that General Ma, a Chinese commander who for a time professed allegiance to the independent Manchurian government, had been wounded or killed in heavy bombing of the village of Li Chin-Tun, between Hailun and Koshan.

Report 100 Killed

It was known 100 were killed in the attack, one of several in the northern districts.

The Japanese were strengthening their drive against the northern rebels by rushing cavalry forces to the front. One unit, direct from Japan, arrived at Tsitsihar and rushed on to Koshan to join in the effort to capture General Ma.

The rebel leader has been pushing southward lately, supposedly in an attempt to obtain food and ammunition from the Heilung-Kiang army of the Manchukuo government which was reported to be wavering in allegiance to the young state.

About 700 Tons Of Coal Ready For Needy Ones

County Now Confines Output To Those Who Are Receiving County Aid

ANOTHER MINE IS NOW IN PROSPECT

About seventy men were found digging coal at the county mine east of town when it was visited this morning by County Commissioners, P. O. Elder, F. R. Woods and a News reporter. The men were working in two groups, designated as mines 5 and 6.

The coal, a vein about eight inches thick, lies under a layer of rocky shale about two feet thick. All the work of removing it is done by hand, the shale, which lies in layers, being pried off with crowbars. Many of the shale slabs removed are from two to four feet square and about eight inches thick. Some of the layers loosed are so large that they have to be broken up with sledges.

At each camp there is a forge where the picks and crowbars are sharpened. This work is all done by the men who are sent out from the welfare department.

A large proportion of the coal being removed now is being piled up at a convenient place for hauling. The coal pile is around fifty feet square, and from two to eight feet high. It is estimated to contain about 700 tons.

For the present at least, the county has discontinued the practice of giving orders to people who are not receiving orders from the county, to dig their winter's supply of coal. This had to be done to conserve the coal. All the coal that is being dug now is by persons who are receiving aid. They are required to dig a certain amount of coal for their grocery orders.

In addition to being a big saving to the county, the coal mine has been a valuable asset in maintaining the morale of the unemployed. There are many out of work who do not feel like accepting charity without some service. They are glad of the opportunity to help themselves as well as others. The coal which they are taking out will be distributed to widows and persons who are unable to work.

It is doubtful if the remaining coal will be sufficient to meet next winter's demands. The commissioners have another project in view in the vicinity of East Brook station, which is now being investigated.

Cudahy Packing Company Plant Is Entered By Thieves

Hams, Meats And Lard Reported Taken In Considerable Quantities

Officer on the beat at 3:40 o'clock this morning discovered that the Cudahy Packing company plant on South Mill street had been entered during the night.

William S. Crozier, manager, was notified and arrived at the plant in a short time.

It was found that entrance had been gained by forcing a rear window. Discovery was also made that the cooler at the plant had been broken into. A window in the garage was also found to have been broken.

Hams, lard and other products of the company in considerable quantities appeared to have been taken. A check up is being made and the actual loss has not yet been determined, according to Manager Crozier.

Deny Petition For Bus Line To Johnstown

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The public service commission today denied the application of the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company and the Welsh Bus Transportation Company for a certificate which would have allowed them to furnish through service between Johnstown and New Castle.

The commission's order pointed out that service between the two points is now furnished by the Pennsylvania railroad and that no attempt had been made at the hearing to prove that such service was inadequate.

"The commission cannot, especially under present condition, authorize an operation which will result in a diversion of traffic from the railroads unless there is a clear showing that the railroad service is grossly inadequate," the order said.

REPAVING WORK ON COURT ST. DONE

Tiger lilies aren't quite as wild as the name suggests, but just as beautiful. There is an abundance of these domesticated tigers along Atlantic avenue....A continuous horseshoe tournament is in progress every day at the rear of the Lee Wettich home on North Cedar street. The players start in early and keep it up for many an hour...In "kilkenny", (southern part of the ward,) goats are about as numerous as dogs in other parts of the city...Fifteen were roaming at large over South Wayne street Thursday afternoon...They are kept by several families, mainly for the milk...A group of a half dozen or more evangelists have been meeting Saturday nights for the past couple weeks at the corner of Liberty and Wabash and have drawn large crowds of interested listeners...Mrs. William Mauermann, 109 East Clayton street, has a "twin rose" in her garden and it is attracting considerable comment among residents of the districts... William Leicht, of 107 East Clayton street, is constructing a fish pond at the rear of his home...Gold fish and water lilies will be added in time.

ANOTHER MINE IS NOW IN PROSPECT

About seventy men were found digging coal at the county mine east of town when it was visited this morning by County Commissioners, P. O. Elder, F. R. Woods and a News reporter. The men were working in two groups, designated as mines 5 and 6.

The coal, a vein about eight inches thick, lies under a layer of rocky shale about two feet thick. All the work of removing it is done by hand, the shale, which lies in layers, being pried off with crowbars. Many of the shale slabs removed are from two to four feet square and about eight inches thick. Some of the layers loosed are so large that they have to be broken up with sledges.

At each camp there is a forge where the picks and crowbars are sharpened. This work is all done by the men who are sent out from the welfare department.

A large proportion of the coal being removed now is being piled up at a convenient place for hauling. The coal pile is around fifty feet square, and from two to eight feet high. It is estimated to contain about 700 tons.

For the present at least, the county has discontinued the practice of giving orders to people who are not receiving orders from the county, to dig their winter's supply of coal. This had to be done to conserve the coal. All the coal that is being dug now is by persons who are receiving aid. They are required to dig a certain amount of coal for their grocery orders.

In addition to being a big saving to the county, the coal mine has been a valuable asset in maintaining the morale of the unemployed. There are many out of work who do not feel like accepting charity without some service. They are glad of the opportunity to help themselves as well as others. The coal which they are taking out will be distributed to widows and persons who are unable to work.

It is doubtful if the remaining coal will be sufficient to meet next winter's demands. The commissioners have another project in view in the vicinity of East Brook station, which is now being investigated.

Cudahy Packing Company Plant Is Entered By Thieves

Hams, Meats And Lard Reported Taken In Considerable Quantities

Officer on the beat at 3:40 o'clock this morning discovered that the Cudahy Packing company plant on South Mill street had been entered during the night.

William S. Crozier, manager, was notified and arrived at the plant in a short time.

It was found that entrance had been gained by forcing a rear window. Discovery was also made that the cooler at the plant had been broken into. A window in the garage was also found to have been broken.

Hams, lard and other products of the company in considerable quantities appeared to have been taken. A check up is being made and the actual loss has not yet been determined, according to Manager Crozier.

Deny Petition For Bus Line To Johnstown

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The public service commission today denied the application of the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company and the Welsh Bus Transportation Company for a certificate which would have allowed them to furnish through service between Johnstown and New Castle.

The commission's order pointed out that service between the two points is now furnished by the Pennsylvania railroad and that no attempt had been made at the hearing to prove that such service was inadequate.

"The commission cannot, especially under present condition, authorize an operation which will result in a diversion of traffic from the railroads unless there is a clear showing that the railroad service is grossly inadequate," the order said.

Tiger Lilies aren't quite as wild as the name suggests, but just as beautiful. The players start in early and keep it up for many an hour...In "kilkenny", (southern part of the ward,) goats are about as numerous as dogs in other parts of the city...Fifteen were roaming at large over South Wayne street Thursday afternoon...They are kept by several families, mainly for the milk...A group of a half dozen or more evangelists have been meeting Saturday nights for the past couple weeks at the corner of Liberty and Wabash and have drawn large crowds of interested listeners...Mrs. William Mauermann, 109 East Clayton street, has a "twin rose" in her garden and it is attracting considerable comment among residents of the districts... William Leicht, of 107 East Clayton street, is constructing a fish pond at the rear of his home...Gold fish and water lilies will be added in time.

Council Pushes Plans For Sale Of Farm Produce

Hopes To Have State Residents Get Full Benefit

HARRISBURG, June 24—Greater Pittsburgh with its consuming population of nearly 1,500,000 is a potential market for Pennsylvania farm produce of which Pennsylvania growers are not now taking full advantage in the opinion of William R. Whitacre, chief marketing analyst of the Greater Pennsylvania Council.

Whitacre and John F. Ross of the council staff, in co-operation with a market analyst of the United States Farm Board and with the Pennsylvania State College, are seeking to develop new marketing possibilities for Pennsylvania farmers.

Whitacre found that Pittsburgh is buying much of its farm produce shipped in by truck from Central and Western Ohio. Live chickens are coming by truck from as far west as Kansas, tomatoes from New Jersey—although the tomato ripening season in Western Pennsylvania is approximately the same as in New Jersey—and Maine has the bulk of the Pittsburgh potato market.

Whitacre says that Pennsylvania products are as good in every way as those of the competing areas. Invasion of the Pittsburgh market by outside growers is mainly due to two causes, he feels after a preliminary survey.

Cites Reasons

First, the lack of modern merchandizing methods on the part of Pennsylvania growers.

Second, that truck transportation developed more slowly around Pittsburgh than around other great American cities, due to the hills, and that Pennsylvania growers are not yet fully aware of the possibilities offered by new highways, such as Route 51 through Fayette county.

Plan To Attend Fort Dedication

Reserve Corps Officers Are Invited To Dedication On July 3-4

Officers of the Reserve Corps in New Castle have been invited and some will attend, the dedication of Fort Necessity near Uniontown, Pa., on July 3 and 4, it was said today. Through Federal and State appropriations the old fort built by Washington as a defense against the French in 1754.

In April 1754 Washington and 159 men were on their way to retake ground lost by Captain William Trent on the Monongahela River. Near what is now Uniontown Christopher Gist came into camp that the French were close on the trail. "Half King" an Indian chief and an ally of the English forces gave Washington information which resulted in Washington defeating the French.

Realizing that a French expedition would be sent to attack from Fort Duquesne, Washington started to build a fort which he called Fort Necessity. At 11 o'clock on the morning of July 3, 1754, the French and Indians appeared and the fighting began. A bloody battle ensued in which Washington was defeated and many of his men killed.

The site of old Fort Necessity has been made a national shrine and thousands will be present on July 3 and 4 when the dedication services are held. The site of the old fort is nine miles east of Uniontown on Route 40. New Castle motorists planning to attend the exercises can get to Uniontown by way of Washington and the National Trail.

DOCTOR EXPLAINS SUICIDE TENDENCY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Suicides do not result from despair or insanity.

So Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, former official in the Keresnky cabinet in Russia, told the American Psychiatric Association here.

The popular belief that men take their lives because failure or despondency is untrue, he asserted.

"Many suicides can not be classed as depressed persons," he said. "Often a suicide is a victim of the self-punishment reaction and blames others for the circumstances.

"The danger of suicide is greatest not when a man or woman is depressed but when the depression is just beginning to lift."

Dr. Zilboorg said psychoanalysis has definitely cured persons suffering from suicidal tendencies.

In April 1754 Washington and 159 men were on their way to retake ground lost by Captain William Trent on the Monongahela River. Near what is now Uniontown Christopher Gist came into camp that the French were close on the trail. "Half King" an Indian chief and an ally of the English forces gave Washington information which resulted in Washington defeating the French.

Realizing that a French expedition would be sent to attack from Fort Duquesne, Washington started to build a fort which he called Fort Necessity. At 11 o'clock on the morning of July 3, 1754, the French and Indians appeared and the fighting began. A bloody battle ensued in which Washington was defeated and many of his men killed.

The site of old Fort Necessity has been made a national shrine and thousands will be present on July 3 and 4 when the dedication services are held. The site of the old fort is nine miles east of Uniontown on Route 40. New Castle motorists planning to attend the exercises can get to Uniontown by way of Washington and the National Trail.

DOCTOR EXPLAINS SUICIDE TENDENCY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Suicides do not result from despair or insanity.

So Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, former official in the Kerensky cabinet in Russia, told the American Psychiatric Association here.

The popular belief that men take their lives because failure or despondency is untrue, he asserted.

"Many suicides can not be classed as depressed persons," he said. "Often a suicide is a victim of the self-punishment reaction and blames others for the circumstances.

"The danger of suicide is greatest not when a man or woman is depressed but when the depression is just beginning to lift."

Dr. Zilboorg said psychoanalysis has definitely cured persons suffering from suicidal tendencies.

Medical Man Disclaims Sun-Bathing And Nudism Cure For Rickets

Experiment With Rats Shows That Very Little Sunshine Each Day Is Needed

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service
Science Writer

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 24.—Some grains of salt were rubbed into the blisters on chronic sun-bathers and nudists here at the meeting of the American association for the advancement of science in Syracuse university.

In a discussion of the rickets—prevention, power of sunlight during the various months of the year, Dr. Arthur Knudson, of Albany Medical college, asserted that more benefit was obtained from sunlight if only the hands and face were exposed than when the whole body was exposed.

This assertion came in the course of his report on the cure and prevention of rickets in rats which had been put on a diet producing rickets. In tests of the sunlight at Albany's latitude, he found that 20 minutes of exposure to the sunlight in June, July and August prevented rickets better than 7 hours of exposure to the rays during the months of December and January.

Summer Sun Best

"Therefore," said Dr. Knudson, "the anti-rachitic effect of midsummer sunshine is about 12 to 14 times that of midwinter sunshine."

He took his slap at sun bathing and nudism in the conclusion of his report, which read:

"Since very little radiation is effective through the hair of the animals, and as has been shown, exposure of about one-eightieth of the surface area of the skin of the rat produces greater healing of rickets than of the whole animals, it may be inferred that perhaps the above data may be applied to humans.

"One-eightieth of the surface area in the human would always be less than the area of the face and hands. Exposure of these to sunshine during eight or nine months of the year should make it possible to obtain ample radiation for the prevention of rickets."

Farewell Note Written By Grant Is Made Public

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., June 24.—President U. S. Grant left a last message telling his wife he would choose serious illness for his children willingly rather than have them swerve from a righteous life.

The last note, found pinned to Grant's night gown after his death was one of many notes which Grant wrote because of a throat affliction which prevented him from talking, according to Former Chief Justice Hugh L. Nichols of the Ohio Supreme court.

Addressed to "Dear Julia," the final message, Nichols said, contained the following words:

"Look after our dear children and direct them in the paths of rectitude. It would distress me far more to think that one of them could depart from an honorable, upright and virtuous life than it would to know they were prostrated on a bed of sickness from which they would never arise.

"With these few injunctions and the knowledge I have of your love and the dutiful affection of all our children, I bid you a final farewell, until we meet in another and, I trust a better world,

"Your loving husband."

Democrats Desire Liberal Candidate

Many States Early Instructed For Roosevelt, Wish They Had Waited A While

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—Many states early instructed for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president now wish they had waited until nearer convention time to make up their minds, Mrs. Ruth Haynes Carpenter, chairman of the Minnesota "rump" delegation, declared in an exclusive interview today.

Mrs. Carpenter, first woman state chairman in history, is the leader of the group which will contest the regular Democratic delegation from Minnesota for recognition. Should her delegates be seated, Roosevelt will be conceded to have lost Minnesota, for the "rumps", who won the primaries with an 18,000 majority, though uninstructed, are said to be for Al Smith.

Want Liberal Candidate.

The "rumps" are eager for a candidate who is liberal, Mrs. Carpenter explained, for then it would be likely that the whole state ticket could ride in. She is running for lieutenant-governor, the first woman ever to do so on a major party ticket.

"Personally," said Mrs. Carpenter, a business woman of 49, with two grown daughters, "I admire Roosevelt very much but there is no one thing he can point to in his record as liberal."

Return From Water Works Convention

H. B. Richards Of Local Water Company Is Named Vice President

H. B. Richards, superintendent of the City of New Castle Water company, and B. F. Johnson, chemist, have returned from State College where they attended the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Water Works Operators' association.

Mr. Richards was named a vice president of the association at the annual election. The meetings were very interesting and a number of technical subjects of interest to the members was discussed. On Tuesday, Mr. Johnson read a paper. There were 182 of the 277 members registered, Mr. Richards reported.

In addition to being named a vice president, Mr. Richards was also chosen on the executive board and membership committee.

WELLESLEY GIRLS VOTE "WET" IN POLL

(International News Service)

WELLESLEY, Mass., June 24.—Wellesley college girls have declared themselves overwhelmingly "wet" and want a definite stand by Democrats and Republicans as their respective conventions.

Of the 1,500 girls at the college 952 voted at a prohibition poll. Of that number 755 were in favor of both parties taking a definite stand on the prohibition issue.

On the second question "should the plank be for continuance of the 18th amendment, modification, repeal or for a national referendum?" 326 favored modification, 265 were for outright repeal, 364 were in favor of a referendum and only 97 voted for prohibition enforcement.

Baruch's Plan For Democrats Proposed Today

Noted New York Financier Would Have Democrats Adopt "Emergent Legislation"

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—An appeal to the Democratic national convention to adopt a platform assuring "emergent legislation" for relief of unemployment, agriculture and repeal of the 18th amendment was made today by Bernard M. Baruch, noted New York financier and Democratic leader.

Declaring the country needs only "wisdom and courage" to lift it out of the present period of economic adversity, Baruch said:

"I hope the Democratic convention will give consideration to what I call emergent legislation, which we can enact without reference to the rest of the world and which will bring greater comfort and peace of mind to our people.

"This means legislation assuring more employment, a sound and honest fiscal and monetary policy, relief of agriculture and relief from the ills of prohibition.

"Where there are other important subjects, like tariffs, debts, reparations, and foreign relations, I consider them of secondary importance in reference to the first issue I have named.

"Taking care of the emergent legislation will make us stronger and then we may be able to help the weaker nations.

"We must first make ourselves strong, and we can do that for this country has everything. All it needs is wisdom and courage."

Mayor-Chief Plan War On Traffic Light Violators

No Further Alibis Will Be Accepted And Heavy Fines Will Be Imposed

Chief of Police John F. Haven, today declared that he and Mayor Charles B. Mayne, had definitely decided to begin immediate war on those motorists, who persisted in jumping the yellow traffic light, or in other words starting out on the yellow light, instead of waiting for the green light.

"Why even some of these motorists of this type will speed up at crossings on the yellow light to get ahead of a street car or some other slower moving vehicle and get into traffic.

We are going to put a stop to this practice" said the chief "if it takes every police officer of the city. Stiff fines will be imposed on all offenders."

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

FIGHT POTATO BEETLES WITH ARSENICAL SPRAY

Potato beetles have mobilized a large army for their 1932 offensive.

Farmers determined to resist the attacks of the bugs are using 3 pounds of calcium arsenate in 100 gallons of bordeaux mixture in a death-dealing charge against the devastating insects.

Applications of the poison must be thorough because eggs are being laid and in some fields are hatching. The undersides of leaves as well as the tops must be covered by the spray to get an effective kill. Possibly four and perhaps five applications will be needed this year to conquer the potato enemies.

This spray also is effective against flea beetles which are numerous, too. A heavy second brood of these insects is expected where early bugs were not killed.

BEAN BEETLE APPEARS

Many gardeners are finding a beetle, yellow to copper in color and having 16 black spots on the wing covering, appearing on the under side of the bean leaf. They look similar to the beetle commonly known as the Lady Bird, but are the Mexican Bean Beetle.

The eggs are laid in masses on the under side of the bean leaf. These eggs later hatch out into spiny slug-like creatures, are yellow in color and about 1-4 inch in length. These beetles skeletonize the bean leaves. Sections are often eaten out of the pods, or pits may be eaten in their surfaces.

Where both the beetle and larvae are at work, the damage is often so severe that the plants die. If control measures are started immediately when the beetles appear, the extent of the damage will be slight.

Calcium arsenate poison used as either a dust or a spray will be effective in controlling these insects. For dusting purposes one part of calcium arsenate should be mixed with seven parts of hydrated lime. Usually 4 or 5 treatment ten days apart are sufficient to protect bush or pole beans. Where liquid spray is used, 3-4 of a ounce of Calcium Arsenate and 1½ ounces of hydrated lime should be mixed in three gallons of water. Where either the dust or the spray are used, it is essential to have the poison on the under side of the bean leaves if satisfactory control is to be effected.

HOGS GET FRESH DRINK FROM AUTOMATIC DEVICE

All animals require large quantities of water in order to make substantial gains. This is true at all times of the year, and in the summer in addition to that needed for growth a large amount of moisture is given off to cool the animal body.

An adequate supply of water for swine should be provided. If running water is not available, an automatic waterer should be used so that fresh water is suplied constantly. An automatic wateris is much better than the ordinary hog trough which exposes the water to the direct rays of the sun and is often used by the hogs for bathing purposes. The automatic fountain supplies water as it is used, thereby keeping it fresh and clean.

Under the supervision of L. C. Madison, Swine Specialist from State College, a satisfactory waterer was recently built on the demonstration swine farm of C. L. Leonhardt, near Mt. Hope in Slippery Rock Township.

This waterer was built from a wooden barrel and the cast iron fountain placed on a platform on skids. This allows the waterer to be moved from one place to another with ease.

Plans for such equipment have been prepared and can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Association Office.

RECOMMEND SUMMER CARE OF ASPARAGUS

Home gardeners who have bearing asparagus beds which have been supplying food daily for the past 6 or 7 weeks will find it advisable to discontinue cutting when peas are available.

Peas are a good substitute for asparagus, and at the same time, have a different taste.

The asparagus cutting season usually ends in the latter part of June. Two practices in the summer culture of the bed are recommended. First, feed the crop with manure or a complete commercial fertilizer. Second, keep the bed free from weeds. If both of these points are observed, a good crop may be expected each year.

FINDS FRUIT THINNING PROFITABLE PRACTICE

Results of 39 thinning demonstrations in 18 Pennsylvania counties last year again support the well-established principle that fruit thinning is often one of the most profitable orchard practices.

In Beaver County the average yield of thinned trees was 8.55 bushels of fancy apples, 13 bushel of No. 1, 13.7 bushels of commercial grade, and 3.3 bushels below this grade, while unthinned trees averaged 3.62 bushels of fancy apples, 9.9 bushels of No. 1, 17.3 bushels of commercial grade, and 8 bushels below this grade. Prices received gave a net profit of $3.43 per tree for an investment of 70 cents in labor for thinning. Comparable figures have been obtained in peach thinning.

Age and vigor of tree, set of fruit, variety, and freedom from disease and insect injury largely determine the advantages expected from thinning. Middle-aged trees, well pruned, and carrying a heavy crop of clean fruit will usually show the greatest profit from thinning.

Under average conditions, the grower will get much better size, better color, and fewer injured fruits on thinned trees. If properly done at the right time, no measurable reduction in yield will result. The increase in size of fruit is sufficient to offset the reduction in number. Although this is no cure for alternate bearing in apples, still with all fruits there is a tendency toward more regular bearing from year to year on trees that have been properly thinned.

Small or misshapen fruits and those which show disease, insect, or mechanical injury should be removed. With apples, the remaining good fruits should be thinned until about 6 to 10 inches apart. With peaches, the distance varies from 4 to 8 inches, the early varieties often being thinned more severely than the late sorts. Trees in low vigor are thinned more severely than their more vigorous orchard mates.

While some growers have already started the work on peaches and will continue to find it worth while until about a month from harvest, the earlier work is generally more profitable. With apples, thinning should be started as soon as the June drop is over, and early varieties may be thinned even before this time.

USE LABELS ON PLANTS

Use orange or red crayon for writing the names of shrubs, trees, or flowering plants on wooden tag labels. The more weatherbeaten the tag becomes, the brighter will be the name on the tag.

Copper labels should never be used directly in the soil, but may be used on a small raised standard for marking shrubs, evergreens, trees, or flowering plants.

Amateurs have found a nail satisfactory for writing the names on copper labels.

Salvation Army Board Meets And Considers Plans

Question Of A Permanent Property For The Use Of The Army Is Considered

The quarterly meeting of the Advisory board of the local corps of the Salvation Army was held late Thursday in the headquarters, 133 Water street, with William White, chairman, presiding.

Invocation was offered by Adjutant W. B. Fowle. Captain Neil Hood, officer in charge here gave a comprehensive report of the work done here in the first five months of the year.

Staff Captain John Stafford of Pittsburgh, divisional headquarters, spoke of the local work and the fact that the army was interested in obtaining a suitable property for its use here. He said the matter would be definitely settled by the property board in the near future. The next meeting of the board will be held July 7 in the local headquarters.

TWO MORE COMPLETE SUMMER BOOK TOURS

Two more patrons of the Free Public Library have completed the summer tour of the World, which was inaugurated late in May, and will be given their certificates of credit shortly.

The latest to finish the reading course of ten books are Harry Booth and Lucille Garver. It is expected that a number of others will finish shortly, as a great number of children have enrolled for the tours.

Large Crowd At Mission Outing

Several Hundred Enjoy Picnic At Lakewood On Thursday

Thursday wasn't just another day on the calendar for between 400 and 500 carefree City Rescue Mission youngsters who didn't fail to take in the Mission's annual Sunday school outing at Lakewood beach.

Yesterday, to them, meant more, and for the planners who ordered and served the picnickers the day brought no letup from work. But it was a happy crowd to work for and that eased up their task. The children were at the beach from 9 a. m. until evening.

Donations Plentiful

Trucks and private cars were donated to transport the children to and from the picnic grounds, and foodstuffs and prizes were generously supplied by local firms and individuals. Superintendent B. J. Watkins received fine support in financing the event.

Mrs. Raymond A. Fredericks served as general chairman during the day, aided volunteers from the Mission's mothers' sewing class and Sunday school teaching staff. A number of men willingly gave their service, including F. S. Cartwright, who played a clown's role throughout the day. A sports program featured the afternoon.

The Lakewood management furnished reduced rates for the children's visit.

College Youths Cause Arrest Of Motorist In Erie

Man Picks Up Two Hitch-Hikers Then Wants To Ditch Them, Arrest Follows

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., June 24—Two indignant college students enroute to the Democratic convention carefully guarded their hitch-hiking luggage today while their "benefactor" whom they charged with attempting to make off with the luggage, occupied a cell in city jail.

Frank C. Lillich, 20, of Rochester, N. Y., a football star at Assumption College, Ontario and Oliver Swift, 21, Lacrosse and wrestling luminary at Hobart College, were the hitch-hikers.

They charged that F. E. Wolverton, 44, of Indianapolis offered them a life at Rochester, N. Y. They accepted.

When they reached Erie, Wolverton sent the collegians to search for a telegraph office.

On their return, Wolverton was gone. He was captured a few minutes later and jailed to face charges of driving while intoxicated.

Democrats Desire Liberal Candidate

Many States Early Instructed For Roosevelt, Wish They Had Waited A While

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—Many states early instructed for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president now wish they had waited until nearer convention time to make up their minds, Mrs. Ruth Haynes Carpenter, chairman of the Minnesota "rump" delegation, declared in an exclusive interview today.

Mrs. Carpenter, first woman state chairman in history, is the leader of the group which will contest the regular Democratic delegation from Minnesota for recognition. Should her delegates be seated, Roosevelt will be conceded to have lost Minnesota, for the "rumps", who won the primaries with an 18,000 majority, though uninstructed, are said to be for Al Smith.

Want Liberal Candidate.

The "rumps" are eager for a candidate who is liberal, Mrs. Carpenter explained, for then it would be likely that the whole state ticket could ride in. She is running for lieutenant-governor, the first woman ever to do so on a major party ticket.

"Personally," said Mrs. Carpenter, a business woman of 49, with two grown daughters, "I admire Roosevelt very much but there is no one thing he can point to in his record as liberal."

H. B. Richards Of Local Water Company Is Named Vice President

H. B. Richards, superintendent of the City of New Castle Water company, and B. P. Johnson, chemist, have returned from State College where they attended the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Water Works Operators' association.

On Tuesday, Mr. Johnson read a paper. There were 183 of the 277 members registered, Mr. Richards reported.

In addition to being named a vice president, Mr. Richards was also chosen on the executive board and membership committee.

WELLESLEY GIRLS VOTE "WET" IN POLL

(International News Service)

WELLESLEY, Mass., June 24.—Wellesley college girls have declared themselves overwhelmingly "wet" and want a definite stand by Democrats and Republicans as their respective conventions.

Of the 1,500 girls at the college 852 voted at a prohibition poll. Of that number 755 were in favor of both parties taking a definite stand on the prohibition issue.

On the second question "should the plank be for continuance of the 18th amendment, modification, repeal or for a national referendum?" 326 favored modification, 265 were for outright repeal, 364 were in favor of a referendum and only 97 voted for prohibition enforcement.

Baruch's Plan For Democrats Proposed Today

Noted New York Financier Would Have Democrats Adopt "Emergent Legislation"

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—An appeal to the Democratic national convention to adopt a platform assuring "emergent legislation" for relief of unemployment, agriculture and repeal of the 18th amendment was made today by Bernard M. Baruch, noted New York financier and Democratic leader.

Declaring the country needs only "wisdom and courage" to lift it out of the present period of economic adversity, Baruch said:

"I hope the Democratic convention will give consideration to what I call emergent legislation, which we can enact without reference to the rest of the world and which will bring greater comfort and peace of mind to our people.

"This means legislation assuring more employment, a sound and honest fiscal and monetary policy, relief of agriculture and relief from the ills of prohibition.

"Where there are other important subjects, like tariffs, debts, reparations, and foreign relations, I consider them of secondary importance in reference to the first issue I have named.

"Taking care of the emergent legislation will make us stronger and then we may be able to help the weaker nations.

"We must first make ourselves strong, and we can do that for this country has everything. All it needs is wisdom and courage."

Mayor-Chief Plan War On Traffic Light Violators

No Further Alibis Will Be Accepted And Heavy Fines Will Be Imposed

Chief of Police John F. Haven, today declared that he and Mayor Charles B. Mayne, had definitely decided to begin immediate war on those motorists, who persisted in jumping the yellow traffic light, or in other words starting out on the yellow light, instead of waiting for the green light.

"Why even some of these motorists of this type will speed up at crossings on the yellow light to get ahead of a street car or some other slower moving vehicle and get into traffic.

We are going to put a stop to this practice" said the chief "if it takes every police officer of the city. Stiff fines will be imposed on all offenders."

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

FIGHT POTATO BEETLES WITH ARSENICAL SPRAY

Potato beetles have mobilized a large army for their 1932 offensive.

Farmers determined to resist the attacks of the bugs are using 3 pounds of calcium arsenate in 100 gallons of bordeaux mixture in a death-dealing charge against the devastating insects.

Applications of the poison must be thorough because eggs are being laid and in some fields are hatching. The undersides of leaves as well as the tops must be covered by the spray to get an effective kill. Possibly four and perhaps five applications will be needed this year to conquer the potato enemies.

This spray also is effective against flea beetles which are numerous, too. A heavy second brood of these insects is expected where early bugs were not killed.

BEAN BEETLE APPEARS

Many gardeners are finding a beetle, yellow to copper in color and having 16 black spots on the wing covering, appearing on the under side of the bean leaf. They look similar to the beetle commonly known as the Lady Bird, but are the Mexican Bean Beetle.

The eggs are laid in masses on the under side of the bean leaf. These eggs later hatch out into spiny slug-like creatures, are yellow in color and about 1-4 inch in length. These beetles skeletonize the bean leaves. Sections are often eaten out of the pods, or pits may be eaten in their surfaces.

Where both the beetle and larvae are at work, the damage is often so severe that the plants die. If control measures are started immediately when the beetles appear, the extent of the damage will be slight.

Calcium arsenate poison used as either a dust or a spray will be effective in controlling these insects. For dusting purposes one part of calcium arsenate should be mixed with seven parts of hydrated lime. Usually 4 or 5 treatment ten days apart are sufficient to protect bush or pole beans. Where liquid spray is used, 3-4 of a ounce of Calcium Arsenate and 1½ ounces of hydrated lime should be mixed in three gallons of water. Where either the dust or the spray are used, it is essential to have the poison on the under side of the bean leaves if satisfactory control is to be effected.

HOGS GET FRESH DRINK FROM AUTOMATIC DEVICE

All animals require large quantities of water in order to make substantial gains. This is true at all times of the year, and in the summer in addition to that needed for growth a large amount of moisture is given off to cool the animal body.

An adequate supply of water for swine should be provided. If running water is not available, an automatic waterer should be used so that fresh water is supplied constantly. An automatic waterer is much better than the ordinary hog trough which exposes the water to the direct rays of the sun and is often used by the hogs for bathing purposes. The automatic fountain supplies water as it is used, thereby keeping it fresh and clean.

Under the supervision of L. C. Madison, Swine Specialist from State College, a satisfactory waterer was recently built on the demonstration swine farm of C. L. Leonhardt, near Mt. Hope in Slippery Rock Township.

This waterer was built from a wooden barrel and the cast iron fountain placed on a platform on skids. This allows the waterer to be moved from one place to another with ease.

Plans for such equipment have been prepared and can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Association Office.

RECOMMEND SUMMER CARE OF ASPARAGUS

Home gardeners who have bearing asparagus beds which have been supplying food daily for the past 6 or 7 weeks will find it advisable to discontinue cutting when peas are available.

Peas are a good substitute for asparagus, and at the same time, have a different taste.

The asparagus cutting season usually ends in the latter part of June. Two practices in the summer culture of the bed are recommended. First, feed the crop with manure or a complete commercial fertilizer. Second, keep the bed free from weeds. If both of these points are observed, a good crop may be expected each year.

FINDS FRUIT THINNING PROFITABLE PRACTICE

Results of 39 thinning demonstrations in 18 Pennsylvania counties last year again support the well-established principle that fruit thinning is often one of the most profitable orchard practices.

In Beaver County the average yield of thinned trees was 8.55 bushels of fancy apples, 13 bushel of No. 1, 13.7 bushels of commercial grade, and 3.3 bushels below this grade, while unthinned trees averaged 3.62 bushels of fancy apples, 9.9 bushels of No. 1, 17.3 bushels of commercial grade, and 8 bushels below this grade. Prices received gave a net profit of $2.43 per tree for an investment of 70 cents in labor for thinning. Comparable figures have been obtained in peach thinning.

Age and vigor of tree, set of fruit, variety, and freedom from disease and insect injury largely determine the advantages expected from thinning. Middle-aged trees, well pruned, and carrying a heavy crop of clean fruit will usually show the greatest profit from thinning.

Under average conditions, the grower will get much better size, better color, and fewer injured fruits on thinned trees. If properly done at the right time, no mensurable reduction in yield will result. The increase in size of fruit is sufficient to offset the reduction in number. Although this is no cure for alternate bearing in apples, still with all fruits there is a tendency toward more regular bearing from year to year on trees that have been properly thinned.

Small or misshapen fruits and those which show disease, insect, or mechanical injury should be removed. With apples, the remaining good fruits should be thinned until about 6 to 10 inches apart. With peaches, the distance varies from 4 to 8 inches, the early varieties often being thinned more severely than the late sorts. Trees in low vigor are thinned more severely than their more vigorous orchard mates.

While some growers have already started the work on peaches and will continue to find it worth while until about a month from harvest, the earlier work is generally more profitable. With apples, thinning should be started as soon as the June drop is over, and early varieties may be thinned even before this time.

USE LABELS ON PLANTS

Use orange or red crayon for writing the names of shrubs, trees, or flowering plants on wooden tag labels. The more weatherbeaten the tag becomes, the brighter will be the name on the tag.

Copper labels should never be used directly in the soil, but may be used on a small raised standard for marking shrubs, evergreens, trees, or flowering plants.

Amateurs have found a nail satisfactory for writing the names on copper labels.

Salvation Army Board Meets And Considers Plans

Question Of A Permanent Property For The Use Of The Army Is Considered

The quarterly meeting of the Advisory board of the local corps of the Salvation Army was held late Thursday in the headquarters, 133 Water street, with William White, chairman, presiding.

Invocation was offered by Adjutant W. B. Fowle. Captain Nell Hood, officer in charge here gave a comprehensive report of the work done here in the first five months of the year.

Staff Captain John Stafford of Pittsburgh, divisional headquarters, spoke of the local work and the fact that the army was interested in obtaining a suitable property for its use here. He said the matter would be definitely settled by the property board in the near future. The next meeting of the board will be held July 7 in the local headquarters.

Large Crowd At Mission Outing

Several Hundred Enjoy Picnic At Lakewood On Thursday

Thursday wasn't just another day on the calendar for between 400 and 500 carefree City Rescue Mission youngsters who didn't fail to take in the Mission's annual Sunday school outing at Lakewood beach.

Yesterday, to them, meant more, and for the planners who ordered and served the picnickers the day brought no letup from work. But it was a happy crowd to work for and that eased up their task. The children were at the beach from 9 a. m. until evening.

Donations Plentiful

Trucks and private cars were donated to transport the children to and from the picnic grounds, and foodstuffs and prizes were generously supplied by local firms and individuals. Superintendent B. J. Watkins received fine support in financing the event.

Mrs. Raymond A. Fredericks served as general chairman during the day, aided volunteers from the Mission's mothers' sewing class and Sunday school teaching staff. A number of men willingly gave their service, including F. S. Cartwright, who played a clown's role throughout the day. A sports program featured the afternoon.

The Lakewood management furnished reduced rates for the children's visit.

College Youths Cause Arrest Of Motorist In Erie

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., June 24—Two indignant college students enroute to the Democratic convention carefully guarded their hitch-hiking luggage today while their "benefactor" whom they charged with attempting to make off with the luggage, occupied a cell in city jail.

Frank C. Lilich, 20, of Rochester, N. Y., a football star at Assumption College, Ontario and Oliver Swift, 21, Lacrosse and wrestling luminary at Hobart College, were the hitch-hikers.

They charged that F. E. Wolverton, 44, of Indianapolis offered them a lift at Rochester, N. Y. They accepted.

When they reached Erie, Wolverton sent the collegians to search for a telegraph office.

On their return, Wolverton was gone. He was captured a few minutes later and jailed to face charges of driving while intoxicated.

Will Speed Up Legislation In Special Session

Leaders Agree On Fourteen Points In Proposed Relief Program

JOINT SESSION TO ESTABLISH PRECEDENT

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Speed and efficiency will be the twin bywords of Pennsylvania's legislators when they assemble here Monday night once more in extraordinary session to act on a comprehensive program of relief for the poor and unemployed.

That the financial exigencies confronting the commonwealth and its political subdivisions demand celerity and despatch in the work of the legislature is acknowledged by all who will have a part in effecting the necessary relief.

Legislative leaders of the state are agreed on 14 major points in the relief program suggested at a conference with Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Spokesmen are agreed that every effort will be made to head off any and all indications of factional quibbling or political strife that may rear up to threaten disaster for the plans thus far proposed and accepted. Governor Pinchot had consistently demanded that the leaders be in accord on a comprehensive plan of action before his call for the special meeting went out.

To Address Session.

The governor will appear before the senate and the house in joint session Monday night to outline plans for relief. This in itself is a precedent, the arrangement marking the initial move to expedite the work. At other sessions, the two chambers usually convened independently and adopted resolutions for the joint meeting to hear the governor on the second day.

At the conclusion of the executive's address, the 14 bills, prepared in advance by Attorney General William A. Schnader and his staff, will be cast into the legislative hopper.

The question of the moment is whether the state and the Philadelphia organizations can "deliver" when the bills are called for vote. Representatives of the Talbot-Turner group and the Wade-Sheffer rural bloc were unable to pledge their members at the governor's conference. Little serious opposition, however, is expected from the Talbot-Turner members, which leaders consider an integral working caucus of the regular organization.

Stumbling Blocks Seen.

Several leaders have already suggested that the usual procedure of referring bills to committees for revision and recapitulation be thrown overboard. If sentiment points to a sustaining vote in the assembly, they argue committee sessions would be superfluous.

Possible stumbling blocks in the path of the legislators are Governor Pinchot's suggestions for a graduated income tax for school purposes and a $50,000,000 road bond issue.

These two propositions, however, are not part of the agreement which conferees are pledged to support.

Both the income tax and bond issue proposals, calling for constitutional amendments, must pass both the special session and the regular 1933 session before becoming law. Although opposed to the measures in themselves, some legislators are willing to sacrifice their convictions for the present because of the immediate need for accord.

New Auto Testing Period Nearing

July 1 Ushers In New Period For Compulsory Auto Testing

HARRISBURG, June 24— The tests, official inspection stations are authorized to make during the compulsory motor vehicle inspection period, July 1 to Sept. 30, inclusive, were announced today by the Department of Revenue. All Pennsylvania-owned motor vehicles, regardless of previous inspection must be reinspected during the period.

Inspection of service brakes and emergency brake is required. They must be adjusted and relined when necessary. Brakes must be road tested to ascertain stopping distances. Front wheels must be checked for alignment and adjusted if out of line. Inspectors are required to jack up the front, inspect front end and also check steering wheel, play. Horns, windshield wipers and mirrors are subject to test.

In checking lighting equipment, the doors will be removed from headlamps to allow inspection of bulbs and reflectors. Bulbs will be checked for candelpower, discoloration or sagging filaments. Reflectors must be polished, replated or replaced if brass shows through reflecting surface, if pin holes or small spots are bunched, or if reflector is rusty or dented.

Both headlamps are required to light in driving and tilted position. Lenses must be clean, not cracked and of the same make in each headlamp. Headlamps must be properly focused and aimed, with necessary loading allowance. Rear lamps and stop lights also will be checked.

The condition of tires will be checked. This check is an added safety precaution and is for the benefit of the vehicle owner. The condition of tires unless continued operation with them is considered too dangerous, will not effect the issuing of approval stickers. Stickers will be issued only when the law has been complied with.

McAdoo Against Abrogation Of Two Thirds Rule

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 24.—William G. McAdoo came out today in strong opposition to abrogation of the two-thirds nomination rule and served notice he would fight to the last ditch against such a change at the present convention.

"The rules should never be changed in the middle of the game," McAdoo said.

The California leader, who deadlocked the 1924 convention with former Governor Alfred E. Smith revealed, however, he believes steps should be taken at this convention which will pave the way for adoption of the majority rule in 1936.

"I am opposed to abrogation of the two-thirds rule at this convention for the same reason that I opposed it in 1924," McAdoo declared in an exclusive interview with International News Service. "The rules should never be changed in the middle of the game.

"The attitude of the California delegation is that this convention should recommend to the next convention the adoption of the majority rule so that all delegates elected to the 1936 convention will have notice that this change is proposed."

Proves new TYDOL leads 17 gasolines in anti-knock quality

Test car with analyzer and sound recording units . . . Equipment truck of the Western Electric Company . . . ready to test 17 gasolines bought in the open market.

YOU'RE looking at the most revealing and accurate road-test ever made of anti-knock quality. It's the first test of its kind ever run.

It's a knock-test that's down to earth. Made on the road. Made on the hills where your own car knocks.

17 non-ethyl gasolines were bought at roadside stations. They were tested in the same car, under uniform conditions of speed, load and grade. And the new Sound Meter—the amazingly sensitive "Electric Ear"—listened in . . . caught the faintest ping and the loudest pound . . . And, for the first time, registered the facts about anti-knock quality under actual road conditions.

The New Anti-Knock TYDOL won its place at the head of the list. Because actual anti-knock quality has been built into it. Because its thrust of power has been smoothed and silenced at the refinery. Because millions have been spent to give it premium performance at no extra cost. Compare it today with any gasoline. And you'll convince yourself that it has every extra-fare quality—except the price.

Will Speed Up Legislation In Special Session

Leaders Agree On Fourteen Points In Proposed Relief Program

JOINT SESSION TO ESTABLISH PRECEDENT

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Speed and efficiency will be the twin bywords of Pennsylvania's legislators when they assemble here Monday night once more in extraordinary session to act on a comprehensive program of relief for the poor and unemployed.

That the financial exigencies confronting the commonwealth and its political subdivisions demand celerity and despatch in the work of the legislature is acknowledged by all who will have a part in effecting the necessary relief.

Legislative leaders of the state are agreed on 14 major points in the relief program suggested at a conference with Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Spokesmen are agreed that every effort will be made to head off any and all indications of factional quibbling or political strife that may rear up to threaten disaster for the plans thus far proposed and accepted. Governor Pinchot had consistently demanded that the leaders be in accord on a comprehensive plan of action before his call for the special meeting went out.

To Address Session.

The governor will appear before the senate and the house in joint session Monday night to outline plans for relief. This in itself is a precedent, the arrangement marking the initial move to expedite the work. At other sessions, the two chambers usually convened independently and adopted resolutions for the joint meeting to hear the governor on the second day.

At the conclusion of the executive's address, the 14 bills, prepared in advance by Attorney General William A. Schnader and his staff, will be cast into the legislative hopper.

The question of the moment is whether the state and the Philadelphia organizations can "deliver" when the bills are called for vote. Representatives of the Talbot-Turner group and the Wade-Sheffer rural bloc were unable to pledge their members at the governor's conference. Little serious opposition, however, is expected from the Talbot-Turner members, which leaders consider an integral working caucus of the regular organization.

Stumbling Blocks Seen.

Several leaders have already suggested that the usual procedure of referring bills to committees for revision and recapitulation be thrown overboard. If sentiment points to a sustaining vote in the assembly, they argue committee sessions would be superfluous.

Possible stumbling blocks in the path of the legislators are Governor Pinchot's suggestions for a graduated income tax for school purposes and a $50,000,000 road bond issue.

These two propositions, however, are not part of the agreement which conferees are pledged to support.

Both the income tax and bond issue proposals, calling for constitutional amendments, must pass both the special session and the regular 1933 session before becoming law. Although opposed to the measures in themselves, some legislators are willing to sacrifice their convictions for the present because of the immediate need for accord.

New Auto Testing Period Nearing

July 1 Ushers In New Period For Compulsory Auto Testing

HARRISBURG, June 24— The tests, official inspection stations are authorized to make during the compulsory motor vehicle inspection period, July 1 to Sept. 30, inclusive, were announced today by the Department of Revenue. All Pennsylvania-owned motor vehicles, regardless of previous inspection must be reinspected during the period.

Inspection of service brakes and emergency brake is required. They must be adjusted and relined when necessary. Brakes must be road tested to ascertain stopping distances. Front wheels must be checked for alignment and adjusted if out of line. Inspectors are required to jack up the front, inspect front end and also check steering wheel play. Horns, windshield wipers and mirrors are subject to test.

In checking lighting equipment, the doors will be removed from headlamps to allow inspection of bulbs and reflectors. Bulbs will be checked for candelpower, discoloration or sagging filaments. Reflectors must be polished, replated or replaced if brass shows through reflecting surface, if pin holes or small spots are bunched, or if reflector is rusty or dented.

Both headlamps are required to light in driving and tilted position. Lenses must be clean, not cracked and of the same make in each headlamp. Headlamps must be properly focused and aimed, with necessary loading allowance. Rear lamps and stop lights also will be checked.

The condition of tires will be checked. This check is an added safety precaution and is for the benefit of the vehicle owner. The condition of tires unless continued operation with them is considered too dangerous, will not effect the issuing of approval stickers. Stickers will be issued only when the law has been complied with.

McAdoo Against Abrogation Of Two Thirds Rule

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 24.—William G. McAdoo came out today in strong opposition to abrogation of the two-thirds nomination rule and served notice he would fight to the last ditch against such a change at the present convention.

"The rules should never be changed in the middle of the game," McAdoo said.

The California leader, who deadlocked the 1924 convention with former Governor Alfred E. Smith, revealed, however, he believes steps should be taken at this convention which will pave the way for adoption of the majority rule in 1936.

"I am opposed to abrogation of the two-thirds rule at this convention for the same reason that I opposed it in 1924," McAdoo declared in an exclusive interview with International News Service. "The rules should never be changed in the middle of the game.

"The attitude of the California delegation is that this convention should recommend to the next convention the adoption of the majority rule so that all delegates elected to the 1936 convention will have notice that this change is proposed."

Electric Ear GIVES VERDICT
With amazing new sound-recording equipment, engineers triple-check true knock-rating of 17 gasolines on the road . . . New Anti-Knock TYDOL wins.

Test car with analyzer and sound recording units . . . Equipment truck of the Western Electric Company . . . ready to test 17 gasolines bought in the open market.

YOU'RE looking at the most revealing and accurate road-test ever made of anti-knock quality. It's the first test of its kind ever run.

It's a knock-test that's down to earth. Made on the road. Made on the hills where your own car knocks.

17 non-ethyl gasolines were bought at roadside stations. They were tested in the same car, under uniform conditions of speed, load and grade. And the new Sound Meter—the amazingly sensitive "Electric Ear"—listened in . . . caught the faintest ping and the loudest pound . . . And, for the first time, registered the facts about anti-knock quality under actual road conditions.

The New Anti-Knock TYDOL won its place at the head of the list. Because actual anti-knock quality has been built into it. Because its thrust of power has been smoothed and silenced at the refinery. Because millions have been spent to give it premium performance at no extra cost. Compare it today with any gasoline. And you'll convince yourself that it has every extra-fare quality—except the price.

Borough Group Ends Gathering

Convention Is Concluded At Conneaut Lake—Little Action Taken

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., —June 24.—Many resolutions, including one endorsing "back-to-the-land" movement and another proposing changes in public utility laws, were held over without definite action as the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs closed a three-day session at Hotel Conneaut Thursday.

The utility resolution and all except two others were sent back to the law committee for further consideration. The two approved were: First, urging legislation to put police of boroughs under civil service, and second, giving borough tax officers authority to collect taxes on the installment plan.

One chief amendment to the utility laws suggested in a report of a special committee would prevent companies from charging rates until the Public Service Commission had rendered a definite decision.

Louis W. Hagmaier, Aspinwall, who is to be appointed chairman of the organizations legislative committee was active for the second proposal that was approved.

T. F. Chrostwaite, Hanover, was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected were Homer Swaney, Beaver Falls, vice president, and A. B. Davidson, Tarentum, financial secretary.

Borough Group Ends Gathering

Convention Is Concluded At Conneaut Lake—Little Action Taken

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., —June 24.—Many resolutions, including one endorsing "back-to-the-land" movement and another proposing changes in public utility laws, were held over without definite action as the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs closed a three-day session at Hotel Conneaut Thursday.

The utility resolution and all except two others were sent back to the law committee for further consideration. The two approved were: First, urging legislation to put police of boroughs under civil service, and second, giving borough tax officers authority to collect taxes on the installment plan.

One chief amendment to the utility laws suggested in a report of a special committee would prevent companies from charging rates until the Public Service Commission had rendered a definite decision.

Louis W. Hagmaier, Aspinwall, who is to be appointed chairman of the organizations legislative committee was active for the second proposal that was approved.

T. F. Chrostwaite, Hanover, was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected were Homer Swaney, Beaver Falls, vice president, and A. B. Davidson, Tarentum, financial secretary.

Prepare Scout Camp For Boys

Diving Tower Erected And Other Preparations Are Made

The big diving tower went into position at the swimming hole at Camp Phillips yesterday afternoon, the camp grounds have been mowed and all is in readiness for the younger boy period which opens tomorrow afternoon at the Boy Scout camp along the Slippery Rock creek. Director Norton and his pioneer squad have things well lined up. The sides of the huts have been repainted with creosoting preparation, cots are being gotten lined up, straw for the ticks is ready, and Mrs. Hanna put over some of her famous cream pies yesterday to see of the camp stove was working the way it should. From the way the pie disappeared it would seem that all is well.

Al Stump is getting busy with quartermaster price lists, and incidentally keeping an eye on the camp radio equipment. Gordon Welch is getting the camp clerk work and trading post ready and McCready is busy with nature study programs. All hands will be ready for the younger boys when they arrive tomorrow afternoon.

Each boy registered so far has been sent a letter asking that the medical examination be taken and the card brought into camp. A list of neded articles for camp was also sent. The leaders are all set, the camp grounds are in shape—and tomorrow evening the 1932 younger boy campfire will send its sparks skyward. The Seascouts are due for their regular weekly meeting at camp, and Skipper Sid Smith will show movies of the trip to Buffalo.

Princess Yilma Reveals Ancient Beauty Secrets

By A. JOHN KOBLER, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 24.—Beauty secrets centuries old, and handed down from generation to generation by descendants of the Queen of Sheba, have been revealed here by the tall and exotic Syrian, Princess Asa Yilma, who is herself a descendant of the ill-fated queen.

About these secrets the Princess spoke at length in the charming surroundings of her white and green drawing-room. She was dressed in a pale green gown which harmonized with the walls and the flowers, filling the room.

In one hand she fingered the long, green stem of a flower, and smiled with that far-off, mysterious smile which recalls the Mona Lisa.

"There is a secret," she said very softly in her clear, musical voice. "One that dates back centuries.

"In my country the highly born women, on getting up in the morning, have a basin of warm water brought to them containing petals of pink and white roses. They dip the petals in water and wash their face and eyes. After that oils are rubbed into the face and neck, then rubbed off and after that a delicious day-cream is rubbed well into the skin.

"Before the cheeks are dry, a form of rouge is applied and afterwards a pale powder is used followed by a deeper shade of powder, and finished with a third, which varies according to the woman's coloring."

Princess Yilma then revealed a way of keeping the face youthful. She said:

"Arab women put an unbroken egg in a basin covered with lemon juice, then let it stand in the dew all night. In the morning the egg shell is dissolved and the mixture is rubbed on the face and used as a mask, kept on for twenty minutes, and removed."

She explained that in Syria, where she was born, all women have soft skins, because they are vain and take the utmost care.

The Princess also has her own ideas of decoration and believes in the influence of colors and flowers.

British Men Leading Women In Economy

LONDON, June 24.—British men are economizing more than British women during the depression.

According to statistics of retail trade compiled by the Board of Trade total sales of men's wear throughout Great Britain were 10 percent lower during April, 1931, while sales of women's wear decreased less than 2 percent.

Part of what the men saved by making the old suit do for another season was spent on furniture, hardware, fancy goods and fancy drapery. These were the only categories of goods in which total sales during April of this year were larger than during April, 1931.

Brooklyn Police Seize Young Men As Knife Wielder

Young Man Attempts To Stab Mother, Catches Tear Gas Bombs Thrown By Police

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—It was just a game of ball to Stanley Caroli, 26, Brooklyn, when police, notified he tried to stab his mother, hurled four tear gas bombs into the house when Caroli had barricaded.

He caught them on the fly as they came, and pitched them back before they exploded. One, bursting, burned a patrolman.

The 22 policemen besieging the home finally broke in and subdued the young man with clubs.

He was in the psychopathic ward of Bellevue hospital today for observation. His mother, Mrs. Theresa Caroli, said without reason he seized a breadknife and pursued her, but that she managed to escape and call for help.

Save 2½¢ PER GLASS on your Strawberry Jam

The cheapest, most delicious strawberries of the year are crowding the local markets. So read below how you can make jam quicker and cheaper than ever this year . . . and then go to your grocer at once.

BY Mrs. F. Bateman
ILLINOIS STATE JELLY CHAMPION

"I just hate to think of women still making jam and jelly the old-fashioned long-boil method. It's so costly. And so terribly tedious!

"I make all my prize-winning jellies and jams with Certo. And I would never think of doing it any other way.

"In the first place, Certo reduces boiling time for crushed strawberry jam, for instance, to one minute. And, of course, that is how it saves me so much money. For, with so little boiling needed, not one bit of the fruit juice has time to boil away. And as a result I usually get fully 5 more glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . and save as much as 2½¢ on every glass.

"Of course, this 1 minute of hard boiling also saves me lots of time, too. Indeed it takes me only 11 or 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit and sugar mixture on until the time my finished jam is cooling in the glasses.

"And with Certo you get much better tasting jam or jelly, too. Certainly the 37 prizes the State Fair Judges awarded my jams and jellies in the last two years testify to that!"

Prepare Scout Camp For Boys

Diving Tower Erected And Other Preparations Are Made

The big diving tower went into position at the swimming hole at Camp Phillips yesterday afternoon, the camp grounds have been mowed and all is in readiness for the younger boy period which opens tomorrow afternoon at the Boy Scout camp along the Slippery Rock creek. Director Morton and his pioneer squad have things well lined up. The sides of the huts have been repainted with creosoting preparation, cots are being gotten lined up, straw for the ticks is ready, and Mrs. Hanna put over some of her famous cream pies yesterday to see of the camp stove was working the way it should. From the way the pie disappeared it would seem that all is well.

Al Stump is getting busy with quartermaster price lists, and incidentally keeping an eye on the camp radio equipment. Gordon Welch is getting the camp clerk work and trading post ready and McCready is busy with nature study programs. All hands will be ready for the younger boys when they arrive tomorrow afternoon.

Each boy registered so far has been sent a letter asking that the medical examination be taken and the card brought into camp. A list of needed articles for camp was also sent. The leaders are all set, the camp grounds are in shape—and tomorrow evening the 1932 younger boy campfire will send its sparks skyward. The Senscouts are due for their regular weekly meeting at camp, and Skipper Sid Smith will show movies of the trip to Buffalo.

Princess Yilma Reveals Ancient Beauty Secrets

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 24.—Beauty secrets centuries old, and handed down from generation to generation by descendants of the Queen of Sheba, have been revealed here by the tall and exotic Syrian, Princess Asa Yilma, who is herself a descendant of the ill-fated queen.

About these secrets the Princess spoke at length in the charming surroundings of her white and green drawing-room. She was dressed in a pale green gown which harmonized with the walls and the flowers, filling the room.

In one hand she fingered the long, green stem of a flower, and smiled with that far-off, mysterious smile which recalls the Mona Lisa.

"There is a secret," she said very softly in her clear, musical voice. "One that dates back centuries.

"In my country the highly born women, on getting up in the morning, have a basin of warm water brought to them containing petals of pink and white roses. They dip the petals in water and wash their face and eyes. After that oils are rubbed into the face and neck, then rubbed off and after that a delicious day-cream is rubbed well into the skin.

"Before the cheeks are dry, a form of rouge is applied and afterwards a pale powder is used followed by a deeper shade of powder, and finished with a third, which varies according to the woman's coloring."

Princess Yilma then revealed a way of keeping the face youthful. She said:

"Arab women put an unbroken egg in a basin covered with lemon juice, then let it stand in the dew all night. In the morning the egg shell is dissolved and the mixture is rubbed on the face and used as a mask, kept on for twenty minutes, and removed."

She explained that in Syria, where she was born, all women have soft skins, because they are vain and take the utmost care.

The Princess also has her own ideas of decoration and believes in the influence of colors and flowers.

British Men Leading Women In Economy

LONDON, June 24.—British men are economizing more than British women during the depression.

According to statistics of retail trade compiled by the Board of Trade total sales of men's wear throughout Great Britain were 10 percent lower during April, 1931, while sales of women's wear decreased less than 2 percent.

Part of what the men saved by making the old suit do for another season was spent on furniture, hardware, fancy goods and fancy drapery. These were the only categories of goods in which total sales during April of this year were larger than during April, 1931.

Confederates Turn Down Proposal To Meet With G. A. R.

RICHMOND, Va., June 24.—With rebel yells the United Confederate Veterans Thursday rejected a resolution calling for a joint reunion with the Grand Army of the Republic.

Coming to the floor without the sanction of the resolutions committee, the proposal died quickly with a unanimous vote for it to be tabled indefinitely. The vote was accompanied by wild yelling and cheering with several in the crowd shouting "Let them ask us first!"

MONESSEN, Pa., June 24.—Bean crops in this district are threatened with destruction as the result of an invasion by Mexican bean beetles.

W. L. Treager, Westmoreland county farm agent, is directing gardeners in their campaign to exterminate the pests.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—It was just a game of ball to Stanley Caroli, 26, Brooklyn, when police, notified he tried to stab his mother, hurled four tear gas bombs into the house when Caroli had barricaded.

He caught them on the fly as they came, and pitched them back before they exploded. One, bursting, burned a patrolman.

The 22 policemen besieging the home finally broke in and subdued the young man with clubs.

He was in the psychopathic ward of Bellevue hospital today for observation. His mother, Mrs. Theresa Caroli, said without reason he seized a breadknife and pursued her, but that she managed to escape and call for help.

Green is said to be good for the nerves. Preferably long green.—The Toledo Blade.

Save 2½¢ PER GLASS on your Strawberry Jam

The cheapest, most delicious strawberries of the year are crowding the local markets. So read below how you can make jam quicker and cheaper than ever this year . . . and then go to your grocer at once.

BY Mrs. F. W. Bateman
ILLINOIS STATE JELLY CHAMPION

"I just hate to think of women still making jam and jelly the old-fashioned long-boil method. It's so costly. And so terribly tedious!

"I make all my prize-winning jellies and jams with Certo. And I would never think of doing it any other way.

"In the first place, Certo reduces boiling time for crushed strawberry jam, for instance, to one minute. And, of course, that is how it saves me so much money. For, with so little boiling needed, not one bit of the fruit juice has time to boil away. And as a result I usually get fully 5 more glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . and save as much as 2½¢ on every glass.

"Of course, this 1 minute of hard boiling also saves me lots of time, too. Indeed it takes me only 11 or 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit and sugar mixture on until the time my finished jam is cooling in the glasses.

"And with Certo you get much better tasting jam or jelly, too. Certainly the 37 prizes the State Fair Judges awarded my jams and jellies in the last two years testify to that!"

Mrs. Bateman is only one of the many State Fair jam and jelly prize winners who use Certo in making all their blue ribbon jams and jellies. Indeed, Certo gives such amazing results that today nearly half the jelly makers in America are using it. Why not try it yourself? It will save you lots of money!

Why don't you do as Mrs. Bateman suggests and order a supply of Certo today—with your strawberries and other jelly making supplies? You will be delighted at the money and time it will save you!

And the extra flavor it will give your jams and jellies, too . . . if you will simply follow carefully the Certo recipes that come in the booklet attached to every Certo bottle.

Franco-German Alliance Step Has Been Taken

Chancellor Franz Von Papen Talks With Premier Herriot Of France

IDEA OF UNION IS ADVANCED

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

LAUSANNE, June 24.—The first definite step toward a Franco-German "understanding"—with a political and military alliance the ultimate aim—was taken by Chancellor Franz Von Papen of the Reich today during a private meeting with Premier Edouard Herriot of France.

It provided Von Papen with his first real opportunity to develop with the French premier his idea of an all-inclusive Franco-German union. First disclosed by International News Service on Wednesday, the projected alliance has since become the principal point of discussion at the reparations conference.

Chancellor Von Papen himself today furnished final and authentic conformation of his unprecedented plan. He made it clear that he firmly intends to develop his idea, but he has too delicate a diplomatic hand to force the issue in any way and thus incur the risk of "bruising France's war memories".

It may now be stated with absolute authority that the basis of the new German chancellor's foreign policy is a political and military alliance with France.

But he intends to progress by easy stages, approaching the topic by delicate routes to see how the idea "takes" with France.

It was in this connection that he held today's conference with Premier Herriot. While the talk ostensibly concerned economic cooperation between the two traditional enemies of continental Europe, International News Service learned that before the conference ended, Von Papen entered on what might be termed "delicate ground".

Stiff Wind For National Open

Wind Of Near Gale Proportions Whips Site Of National Open Golf Play

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer.

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y. June 24.—With Olin Dutra, leading the pack and Leo Diegel the runner up, four strokes behind, the second 18-hole round of the National Open golf championship started today under unfavorable weather conditions.

A stiff westerly wind swept the course, at times the breeze whipped up to near-gale proportions, making putting on the fast green extremely difficult. It was doubtful if any of the field of 148 would duplicate Dutra's sensational 69 of yesterday.

Dutra, who has taken the spotlight in the tournament, will not tee off until 2:05 this afternoon. Diegel, who was second yesterday with a 73, will not start until after noon.

Police Hold Man For Concocting Kidnaping Yarn

Lancaster Man Told Police Kidnapers Threatened To Take Son, Wrote Himself Letters

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., June 24—Malcolm A. Rieser, jewelry store manager, was held by police today charged with inventing a fantastic "kidnap plot" in which his five year old son, Malcolm Jr., was the supposed victim.

Rieser brown down under persistent questioning when he became entangled in details of the bizarre story he spun. He confessed he had concocted the scheme and had written a series of threatening letters to himself. Police were unable to learn why Rieser invented the hoax and attempted to carry out his plans.

He was charged with false pretense, sending threatening letters through the mails, and misinforming the police department. Rieser's son had been under constant police guard since the father notified authorities last June 11 of the first demand from the "kidnapers." The sum of $5,000 was demanded under threat of harming the boy.

RAP MAYOR COXEY

MASSILLON, O.—Disregarding the objections of the city's pastors, Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, famed champion of the unemployed, permitted a circus to hold a Sunday performance in Massillon, and sent all the ministers in the city complimentary tickets. Reverend Isaac Harper and Reverend A. A. Nellis branded the mayor's act as a "flagrant insult."

The trouble with independence is that so many persons construe it as meaning to do the wrong thing just because somebody suggests doing the right thing.—The Lynchburg News.

Franco-German Alliance Step Has Been Taken

Chancellor Franz Von Papen Talks With Premier Herriot Of France

IDEA OF UNION IS ADVANCED

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

LAUSANNE, June 24.—The first definite step toward a Franco-German "understanding"—with a political and military alliance the ultimate aim—was taken by Chancellor Franz Von Papen of the Reich today during a private meeting with Premier Edouard Herriot of France.

It provided Von Papen with his first real opportunity to develop with the French premier his idea of an all-inclusive Franco-German union. First disclosed by International News Service on Wednesday, the projected alliance has since become the principal point of discussion at the reparations conference.

Chancellor Von Papen himself today furnished final and authentic conformation of his unprecedented plan. He made it clear that he firmly intends to develop his idea, but he has too delicate a diplomatic hand to force the issue in any way and thus incur the risk of "bruising France's war memories".

It may now be stated with absolute authority that the basis of the new German chancellor's foreign policy is a political and military alliance with France.

But he intends to progress by easy stages, approaching the topic by delicate routes to see how the idea "takes" with France.

It was in this connection that he held today's conference with Premier Herriot. While the talk ostensibly concerned economic cooperation between the two traditional enemies of continental Europe, International News Service learned that before the conference ended, Von Papen entered on what might be termed "delicate ground".

Stiff Wind For National Open

Wind Of Near Gale Proportions Whips Site Of National Open Golf Play

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer.

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y. June 24.—With Olin Dutra, leading the pack and Leo Diegel the runner up, four strokes behind, the second 18-hole round of the National Open golf championship started today under unfavorable weather conditions.

A stiff westerly wind swept the course, at times the breeze whipped up to near-gale proportions, making putting on the fast green extremely difficult. It was doubtful if any of the field of 148 would duplicate Dutra's sensational 69 of yesterday.

Dutra, who has taken the spotlight in the tournament, will not tee off until 2:05 this afternoon. Diegel, who was second yesterday with a 73, will not start until after noon.

Police Hold Man For Concocting Kidnaping Yarn

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., June 24—Malcolm A. Rieser, jewelry store manager, was held by police today charged with inventing a fantastic "kidnap plot" in which his five year old son, Malcolm Jr., was the supposed victim.

Rieser brown down under persistent questioning when he became entangled in details of the bizarre story he spun. He confessed he had concocted the scheme and had written a series of threatening letters to himself. Police were unable to learn why Rieser invented the hoax and attempted to carry out his plans.

He was charged with false pretense, sending threatening letters through the mails, and misinforming the police department. Rieser's son had been under constant police guard since the father notified authorities last June 11 of the first demand from the "kidnapers." The sum of $5,000 was demanded under threat of harming the boy.

RAP MAYOR COXEY

MASSILLON, O.—Disregarding the objections of the city's pastors, Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, famed champion of the unemployed, permitted a circus to hold a Sunday performance in Massillon, and sent all the ministers in the city complimentary tickets. Reverend Isaac Harper and Reverend A. A. Nellis branded the mayor's act as a "flagrant insult."

The trouble with independence is that so many persons construe it as meaning to do the wrong thing just because somebody suggests doing the right thing.—The Lynchburg News.

Gaston Park Reveals Result Of Efforts To Beautify By Workers

Many Other Improvements Have Been Made By City Workmen

Jameson Memorial Park Is Transformed—Working On Neshannock

Result of improvements made by workmen of the mayor's committee on relief, under the supervision of director of parks, Louis Genkinger, are beginning to be realized and it is doubtful if there is a more entrancing acreage in this section than Gaston Park. Jameson Memorial Park has also been improved and by fall it should also be one of the show places of the city.

Last fall workmen constructed stonewalls along the gulleys into a V-like formation at the lower end of Gaston Park where it touches Lyndal street. A terrace was also constructed and wooden bridges built upon stone piers. A stairway leads into the park from Cunningham avenue. Rose bushes were planted and before summer is over they will be in bloom.

Recently members of the Garden club and shade tree commission journeyed to the Pymatuming dam and returned with trees and shrubbery which has been planted at the park. Larch, white pine, aspin, green pine, rare orchids, blueberry trees, willows and trilliums are planted at the park and are doing fine.

In the upper portion of the park near the shelter house a tile drain was constructed and as a result no more water will flow on the baseball field and tennis court. An extension to the stone wall along the gulley which carries off Wilson avenue storm sewer water is being made.

Owen Fox has built a score of wooden benches in various portions of the park which is heavy with foliage from big and little trees. They are so constructed that they cannot be removed and provide a rest for tired parents who accompany children to the natural playground.

Ash walks, bordered with brick, have been built through the park and young trees which were transplanted last fall are doing nicely.

Jameson Memorial park, near the Jameson Memorial hospital which formerly was nothing more than a big hole in the ground has been filled in, a terrace constructed and stone walls biult. The wall is a neat piece of work and was constructed under the supervision of Harry Hoskins, city engineers bureau, J. K. McQuiddy and Owen Fox.

After the terrace was built, grass was planted. Rose bushes and shrubbery were also placed and in various portions of the park plants are starting to bloom. Grass will be planted again next fall.

Arrangements are under way for the construction of a tennis court at Jameson Memorial park and further improvements is being made now at Laurel Boulevard. The tennis court in Boyles field will be scraped and rerolled and Washington Junior high court plot is now being weeded.

"The Narrows" is one of the nicest drives in the city. The project was put through one year ago. It consisted of widening of the cartway, making a good road and construction of a strong fence. Within a short time the stone, quarried from the hillside will be removed from The Narrows.

The Neshannock river wall is also under way and will not be entirely completed for some time. Like other walls it looks very good and according to builders will stand the test of time.

Gaston Park Reveals Result Of Efforts To Beautify By Workers

Many Other Improvements Have Been Made By City Workmen

Jameson Memorial Park Is Transformed—Working On Neshannock

Result of improvements made by workmen of the mayor's committee on relief, under the supervision of director of parks, Louis Genkinger, are beginning to be realized and it is doubtful if there is a more entrancing acreage in this section than Gaston Park. Jameson Memorial Park has also been improved and by fall it should also be one of the show places of the city.

Last fall workmen constructed stonewalls along the gulleys into a V-like formation at the lower end of Gaston Park where it touches Lyndal street. A terrace was also constructed and wooden bridges built upon stone piers. A stairway leads into the park from Cunningham avenue. Rose bushes were planted and before summer is over they will be in bloom.

Recently members of the Garden club and shade tree commission journeyed to the Pymatuning dam and returned with trees and shrubbery which has been planted at the park. Larch, white pine, aspin, green pine, rare orchids, blueberry trees, willows and trilliums are planted at the park and are doing fine.

In the upper portion of the park near the shelter house a tile drain was constructed and as a result no more water will flow on the baseball field and tennis court. An extension to the stone wall along the gulley which carries off Wilson avenue storm sewer water is being made.

Owen Fox has built a score of wooden benches in various portions of the park which is heavy with foliage from big and little trees. They are so constructed that they cannot be removed and provide a rest for tired parents who accompany children to the natural playground.

Ash walks, bordered with brick, have been built through the park and young trees which were transplanted last fall are doing nicely.

Jameson Memorial park, near the Jameson Memorial hospital which formerly was nothing more than a big hole in the ground has been filled in, a terrace constructed and stone walls built. The wall is a neat piece of work and was constructed under the supervision of Harry Hoskins, city engineers bureau, J. K. McQuiddy and Owen Fox.

After the terrace was built, grass was planted. Rose bushes and shrubbery were also placed and in various portions of the park plants are starting to bloom. Grass will be planted again next fall.

Arrangements are under way for the construction of a tennis court at Jameson Memorial park and further improvements is being made now at Laurel Boulevard. The tennis court in Boyles field will be scraped and rerolled and Washington Junior high court plot is now being weeded.

"The Narrows" is one of the nicest drives in the city. The project was put through one year ago. It consisted of widening of the cartway, making a good road and construction of a strong fence. Within a short time the stone, quarried from the hillside will be removed from The Narrows.

The Neshannock river wall is also under way and will not be entirely completed for some time. Like other walls it looks very good and according to builders will stand the test of time.

Chicago Has Military Celebration In Between Two Big Conventions

By FLOYD GIBBONS
(Copyright, 1932, By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, June 24.—Hello everybody.

Major General Parker and Brigadier General Frank Bolles have sent Chicago's patriotic blood surging. Two hundred picked troops are treading the streets where tears coursed down in 1917 and 1918 when other boys marched by.

There was camp inspection this morning. Brass buttons glistened. Uniforms were new and spick and span. Leather puttees—not mud and blood soaked cloth leggings—glinted.

Ten thousand other soldiers with empty bellies—undershirts so ragged they hardly hold the service medals pinned on them—are waiting, waiting under the same sky in Washington, hoping that the engineers of their country will start the machinery that will give them jobs—feed their families.

Rail Outing At Cascade Draws Locals; Out-Of-Towners Attend

The weatherman was in a jovial mood on Thursday night and so a merry throng of Pennsylvania railroad families of New Castle and scattered Erie & Ashtabula division points didn't find much hardship enjoying the men-sponsored outing program that lasted from 6 until 10 o'clock last night at Cascade park. Close to 400 employes, their families and friends participated in the events.

The program-planners had rehearsed their part to perfection, and Old Sol's cheery rays were all it took to tap the successful climax. The cherry rays did sparkle and left the gay picnic grove crowd an open road to enjoy itself.

Men Pilot Events.

O. A. Ishler, the general chairman of arrangements, engineered the program with a skilled staff of assistants who had given much of their time beforehand toward assuring the throng a gay time.

Ishler's aides included E. M. Fisher, assistant road foreman of engines, who represented that department; L. M. Campbell, who represented the telegraph operators; L. F. Hart, who represented the agents' department; J. A. McWilliams, who represented the trainmaster's department, and Harry Thompson, who was committeeman for the motive power forces.

M. J. Paris handled the ticket sale while L. M. Campbell directed the table arrangements; E. M. Fisher supervised the serving work; E. C. Johnston directed the entertainment and sports, and J. K. Davidson supervised the transportation of food.

Other members of the different departments volunteered to act at the park, and the committeemen's fine service gave General Chairman Ishler full right to say that the affair was one that would match any the ladies of the railroad could sponsor. As it was, the men cooks were on trial for their boasting, but the ladies' vote today would easily acquit them.

From 6 until 7 the delicious hamburgs and trimmings occupied the picnickers, with an impromptu program following after.

Park's Team Loses.

A mushball game between the seventh ward employes and the uptown forces, ending 8-3 in favor of Ray Rhodes' uptown team, followed the grove program. S. E. "Lefty" Park captained the losing aggregation. Superintendent H. T. Frushour umpired.

In a drawing that came at the close of the mushball, little Mary Jane Zilian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zilian, Delaware avenue, drew the offered prize for her mother. Little Donna Paris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Paris, assisted in the drawing.

Players on Rhodes' victorious mushball team were Kooser, Hofmeister, Hamilton, Rhodes, Navarre, Abernathy, S. Johns, Perotta, Bittner, Thompson and Frengel, while Park captained the following men: Wharton, Kennedy, Zilian, Wilson, Curtin, Martin, Edgington, Ken Kennedy, Wharton, Weschler and Connor. Both captains played.

Present to enjoy the outing with the E. & A. group were several long-distance visitors, including Captain of Police Worthington of Cleveland, head of the Pennsy's police on the Lake Grand division. Other friends were present.

Desertion Charged In Divorce Case

William H. Linton has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from his wife, Mariellen Linton, on the grounds of desertion. The couple were married in July, 1929 and lived together to the following November, when the alleged desertion occurred.

TRYING TO LOCATE GRAVES OF SOLDIERS

Mrs. E. G. Holliday, who was recently appointed receiver for Valley View cemetery, is making an effort to get in touch with relatives of Civil War veterans who are buried in the cemetery. This is for the purpose of having the graves properly marked. Mrs. Holliday would like to hear from any person who can give the desired information.

City Gives Answer On Highway Fund

Will Not Attempt To Match $69,000 Fund For Highway Work

Council convened today in the city building and adopted a resolution which informed the state highway department the city is in no financial position to "match" a sum derived from the state gasoline tax and allocated to New Castle for the repairing and rebuilding of streets here recognized as part of the state highway system. The $69,000 will revert to the state motor general revenue fund.

H. E. Kloss, district engineer of the highway department conferred with council yesterday.

He asked council what the city could do toward providing money to "match" the sum allocated by the state to the city.

The sum which was allotted to the city amounted to $69,000, and council told Kloss the city could not furnish any money.

They did not agree with Councilman Louis Genkinger that a $50 000 bond issue be made.

He pointed out that the work here would be a benefit and the money would go farther now than in normal times.

Genkinger said the carrying cost would be less than what the city would save, and it would create employment.

Other councilmen pointed out that it may be necessary to shave some of the 1932 appropriations.

They reached a decision that the city could not furnish any money and agreed to release the money allotted to the city.

Today Mayor Mayne told colleagues that a resolution to that effect had been prepared by Solicitor White.

Councilman Treser introduced the resolution and it was adopted.

The resolution read that the city is reluctant to forego the contribution from the state in view of the fact that many of the city streets forming part of the highway system are in such a condition that the state money might very profitably be spent on them this year.

Protest Made On Abandonment Of Bus Service

Sampson Street Residents Make Protest To Council On Proposal

Henry E. Dupuy, Porter street, today acted as spokesman for a delegation from Sampson street vicinity which protested the proposed abandonment of bus service by the New Castle street electric railway. The spokesman presented to council, which met in the City building, a petition signed by about 150 protestants.

Dupuy said removal of the buses would cause considerable inconvenience to residents and in bad weather would also create hardship as approximately 175 children must travel to George Washington junior high school from that district. He also said removal of the busses would decrease property values.

Councilman Stanley Treser informed Mr. Dupuy he had discussed the proposed removal with Superintendent T. C. Moore and Treser said the proposed removal of bus service here "had been called off for the present."

Mayor Mayne said that he knew that members of council are individually opposed to the proposed service abandonment.

The company's proposal was caused by the loss of revenue and was submitted informally to city council.

As yet no application has been filed by the company with the public service commission.

VETERANS MUST REPORT PROMPTLY

Veterans who have claims for disability pending with the U. S. veterans administration, and who are ordered to report in Pittsburgh for examination on a certain date, are advised that they must report promptly.

If unable to be present on the date specified, they must notify the administration office at once. This is essential as schedules are prepared which must be strictly adhered to.

FIRST-CLASSERS AT COOK FOREST

Two days of exploration in one of Pennsylvania's most gigantic forest lands . . . thru long winding paths flanked with green foliage, floored with many year's accumulation of leaves and walled in by great pines reaching high in the sky . . . evenings around a camp fire . . . two nights in the open with stars and moon peaking down through the dark, swishing tree tops.

That is the reward eight New Castle Girl Scouts are enjoying this week-end—a reward for their long and faithful efforts this winter to win that coveted prize—a first class badge. They were given their badges last Monday by the Court of Awards of Minnehaha Troop 6.

Today, accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Hanger and Miss Elizabeth Reis, they left at an early hour by motor for Cook Forest. There they will camp, returning Sunday evening.

Chicago Prexy Asserts Third Party Likely

Tells Democrats What They Must Put In Party Platform

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24.—The youth of America will throw its tremendous influence to a third party unless the Democratic party adopts an acceptable platform on economic issues, including repeal or modification of prohibition, Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, youthful Chicago University president, told the unofficial Democratic platform committee today.

Hutchins told the Democrats they had a wonderful opportunity for victory next fall by winning the support of the younger generation of voters. He urged adoption of a platform, calling for reduction of tariffs, restriction of federal bureaucracy, reduction of federal expenditures, limitation of soldiers relief to wartime disabilities and a change in the dry law.

"Unless the Democratic party writes a platform acceptable on these economic issues," Hutchins warned, "a third party will be organized to get the vote of the youth of America."

Plans To Ban Man Opening Wife's Mail

PARIS, June 24—The French Senate which repeatedly has defeated efforts to enact woman suffrage, received a bill today to eliminate from the civil code the obligation of the wife to obey her husband.

A gallery packed with women who came for the debate on the suffrage measure received with some glee the news that the minister of justice had introduced this new measure of emancipation.

The bill provided that husband and wife must dwell together and must educate their children, but it deprives the husband of the right to open his wife's mail and grants the wife the privilege of entering business, of acquiring property and of signing legal documents without the consent of her husband.

Chicago Has Military Celebration In Between Two Big Conventions

By FLOYD GIBBONS
(Copyright, 1932, By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, June 24.—Hello everybody.

One - two - three - four. Hep-hep, boys and girls. All conventions are off for today.

A hundred airplanes—sparkling in the sunlight—are droning in formation overd the Loop, over Chicago's magnificent waterfront.

Major General Parker and Brigadier General Frank Bolles have sent Chicago's patriotic blood surging. Two hundred picked troops are treading the streets where tears coursed down in 1917 and 1918 when other boys marched by.

There was camp inspection this morning. Brass buttons glistened. Uniforms were new and spick and span. Leather puttees—not mud and blood soaked cloth leggings—glinted.

If the flapjacks at breakfast weren't browned in butter and syrup, some mess sergeant had to answer why.

It's in the navy. The air. And back to 100 years ago when old Chief Partridge and his rum-hunting gang of Indians were scalping settlers as they fled from besieged Fort Dearborn.

Just happens that the army, navy and air forces are staging a modern show of military tactics—re-enacting Cantigny on the lake front—in honor George Washington's 200th anniversary, in between the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

It's in the memory of George Washington.

Ten thousand other soldiers with empty bellies—undershirts so ragged they hardly hold the service medals pinned on them—are waiting, waiting under the same sky in Washington, hoping that the engineers of their country will start the machinery that will give them jobs—feed their families.

That is their Valley Forge.

Rail Outing At Cascade Draws Locals; Out-Of-Towners Attend

The weatherman was in a jovial mood on Thursday night and so a merry throng of Pennsylvania railroad families of New Castle and scattered Erie & Ashtabula division points didn't find much hardship enjoying the men-sponsored outing program that lasted from 6 until 10 o'clock last night at Cascade park. Close to 400 employes, their families and friends participated in the event.

The program-planners had rehearsed their part to perfection, and Old Sol's cheery rays were all it took to tap the successful climax. The cherry rays did sparkle and left the gay picnic grove crowd an open road to enjoy itself.

Men Pilot Events.

O. A. Ishler, the general chairman of arrangements, engineered the program with a skilled staff of assistants who had given much of their time beforehand toward assuring the throng a gay time.

Ishler's aides included E. M. Fisher, assistant road foreman of engines, who represented that department; L. M. Campbell, who represented the telegraph operators; L. E. Hart, who represented the agents' department; J. A. McWilliams, who represented the trainmaster's department, and Harry Thompson, who was committeeman for the motive power forces.

M. J. Paris handled the ticket sale while L. M. Campbell directed the table arrangements; E. M. Fisher supervised the serving work; E. C. Johnston directed the entertainment and sports, and J. K. Davidson supervised the transportation of food.

Other members of the different departments volunteered to act at the park, and the committeemen's fine service gave General Chairman Ishler full right to say that the affair was one that would match any the ladies of the railroad could sponsor. As it was, the men cooks were on trial for their boasting, but the ladies' vote today would easily acquit them.

From 6 until 7 the delicious hamburgs and trimmings occupied the picnickers, with an impromptu program following after.

Park's Team Loses.

A mushball game between the seventh ward employes and the uptown forces, ending 8-3 in favor of Ray Rhodes' uptown team, followed the grove program. S. E. "Lefty" Park captained the losing aggregation. Superintendent H. T. Frushour umpired.

In a drawing that came at the close of the mushball, little Mary Jane Zillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zillian, Delaware avenue, drew the offered prize for her mother. Little Donna Paris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Paris, assisted in the drawing.

Players on Rhodes' victorious mushball team were Kooser, Hofmeister, Hamilton, Rhodes, Navarre, Abernathy, S. Johns, Perotta, Bittner, Thompson and Evengel, while Park captained the following men: Wharton, Kennedy, Zillan, Wilson, Curtin, Martin, Edgington, Ken Kennedy, Wharton, Weschler and Connor. Both captains played.

Present to enjoy the outing with the E. & A. group were several long-distance visitors, including Captain of Police Worthington of Cleveland, head of the Penrsy's police on the Lake Grand division. Other friends were present.

City Gives Answer On Highway Fund

Will Not Attempt To Match $69,000 Fund For Highway Work

Council convened today in the city building and adopted a resolution which informed the state highway department the city is in no financial position to "match" a sum derived from the state gasoline tax and allocated to New Castle for the repairing and rebuilding of streets here recognized as part of the state highway system. The $69,000 will revert to the state motor general revenue fund.

H. E. Kloss, district engineer of the highway department conferred with council yesterday.

He asked council what the city could do toward providing money to "match" the sum allocated by the state to the city.

The sum which was allotted to the city amounted to $69,000, and council told Kloss the city could not furnish any money.

They did not agree with Councilman Louis Genkinger that a $50,000 bond issue be made.

He pointed out that the work here would be a benefit and the money would go farther now than in normal times.

Genkinger said the carrying cost would be less than what the city would save, and it would create employment.

Other councilmen pointed out that it may be necessary to shave some of the 1932 appropriations.

They reached a decision that the city could not furnish any money and agreed to release the money allotted to the city.

Today Mayor Mayne told colleagues that a resolution to that effect had been prepared by Solicitor White.

Councilman Treser introduced the resolution and it was adopted.

The resolution read that the city is reluctant to forego the contribution from the state in view of the fact that many of the city streets forming part of the highway system are in such a condition that the state money might very profitably be spent on them this year.

Protest Made On Abandonment Of Bus Service

Sampson Street Residents Make Protest To Council On Proposal

Henry E. Dupuy, Porter street, today acted as spokesman for a delegation from Sampson street vicinity which protested the proposed abandonment of bus service by the New Castle street electric railway. The spokesman presented to council, which met in the City building, a petition signed by about 150 protestants.

Dupuy said removal of the buses would cause considerable inconvenience to residents and in bad weather would also create hardship as approximately 175 children must travel to George Washington junior high school from that district. He also said removal of the busses would decrease property values.

Councilman Stanley Treser informed Mr. Dupuy he had discussed the proposed removal with Superintendent T. C. Moore and Treser said the proposed removal of bus service here "had been called off for the present."

Mayor Mayne said that he knew that members of council are individually opposed to the proposed service abandonment.

The company's proposal was caused by the loss of revenue and was submitted informally to city council.

As yet no application has been filed by the company with the public service commission.

VETERANS MUST REPORT PROMPTLY

Veterans who have claims for disability pending with the U. S. veterans administration, and who are ordered to report in Pittsburgh for examination on a certain date, are advised that they must report promptly.

Reed And Davis Split On Question Of U. S. Bond Issue

Davis For Issue And Reed Against—Vote On Other Matters

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis split this week on the question of a $500,000,000 federal bond issue to finance a public works program when the Senate retained in the Wagner relief bill the bond issue provision.

Senator Reed voted to strike the bond issue from the relief measure. Senator Davis voted for retention of the bond program. The Senate as a whole decided to approve the bond issue by a 57 to 19 ballot.

The Ohio Senators also differed on this question, with Senator Simeon Fess, Republican, voting against the bond issue and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, Democrat, supporting it.

Davis and Reed both voted in favor of keeping in the relief measure $40,000,000 to be expended by the Secretary of Agriculture in developing markets abroad for agricultural products of this country. The $40,000,000 was kept in the bill by a 39 to 33 ballot.

Reed and Davis also split on the major question of amending the bill so as to prescribe a $5,500,000,000 bond issue to finance public works as unemployment relief. This amendment was sponsored by Senator La Follette, Progressive Republican of Wisconsin, and was killed by a 56 to 12 vote.

Senator Reed voted against the La Follette proposition. Davis, however, bolted the regular Republicans to support it. The Pennsylvania Senator was the only regular Republican voting for the vast bond issue, the other eleven votes for the scheme coming from four Democrats and seven Progressive Republicans of the West.

Both of Ohio's Senators voted against the La Follette program.

Today he carries the reptile around in a tin box, showing it to almost everyone he meets. He reports that two of the first ten who saw his pet signed the pledge a third called him a liar on the grounds that there's no such thing as a three-tailed lizard, and a fourth asserted that he'd seen the thing before only it was colored green with yellow polka-dots at the time.

Reed And Davis Split On Question Of U. S. Bond Issue

Davis For Issue And Reed Against—Vote On Other Matters

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis split this week on the question of a $500,000,000 federal bond issue to finance a public works program when the Senate retained in the Wagner relief bill the bond issue provision.

Senator Reed voted to strike the bond issue from the relief measure. Senator Davis voted for retention of the bond program. The Senate as a whole decided to approve the bond issue by a 57 to 19 ballot.

The Ohio Senators also differed on this question, with Senator Simeon Fess, Republican, voting against the bond issue and Senator Robert J. Bulkley Democrat, supporting it.

Davis and Reed both voted in favor of keeping in the relief measure $40,000,000 to be expended by the Secretary of Agriculture in developing markets abroad for agricultural products of this country. The $40,000,000 was kept in the bill by a 39 to 33 ballot.

Reed and Davis also split on the major question of amending the bill so as to prescribe a $5,500,000,000 bond issue to finance public works as unemployment relief. This amendment was sponsored by Senator La Follette, Progressive Republican of Wisconsin, and was killed by a 56 to 12 vote.

Senator Reed voted against the La Follette proposition. Davis, however, bolted the regular Republicans to support it. The Pennsylvania Senator was the only regular Republican voting for the vast bond issue, the other eleven votes for the scheme coming from four Democrats and seven Progressive Republicans of the West.

Both of Ohio's Senators voted against the La Follette program.

Three-Tailed Lizard Toted In Tin Box

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., June 24.—That annoying creature that's been crawling around the ceiling at 2 a. m. in the room of inebriated gentlemen has been captured by Joe Gargiulo.

It's a three-tailed lizard.

Today he carries the reptile around in a tin box, showing it to almost everyone he meets. He reports that two of the first ten who saw his pet signed the pledge a third called him a liar on the grounds that there's no such thing as a three-tailed lizard, and a fourth asserted that he'd seen the thing before only it was colored green with yellow polka-dots at the time.

Max Schmeling Keeping Quiet About Decision

"I Have Never Uttered Protest," Says Former German Champion

THINKS OFFICIALS WERE VERY FAIR

By W. S. Farnsworth
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, June 24.—"I have no complaint to make about the officials. I believe all three of them who judged the fight were honest in the opinions they rendered. Of course I thought I won, but I have never uttered one word of protest against the verdict."

Max Schmeling, whose world's heavyweight title was shorn from him by a two to one vote of the New York state athletic commission officials in Tuesday night's battle with Jack Sharkey, made this statement Thursday.

Believes Officials Fair.

"I never questioned the officials either before or after their appointment to handle the bout. What has happened is history. We can't change the decision by talking about it," he said.

"I had a talk with Joe Jacobs and ordered him to stop complaining about the decision. All that talk did no good and it only stirred up feeling that was not good for boxing."

"I lost my head when I talked over the radio and said Max had been robbed. I was excited and disappointed at the outcome of the fight. What I said was in anger and now that I have had time to cool off, I'm sorry for the foolish things I might have said."

Tenseness Lifted.

The dual statements by the two men most concerned in the outcome of the decision lifts much of the tenseness from the situation. Dark innuendos had been bandied about with "in the bag", "fixed" and other nasty terms prominent in the discussions.

Joe Jacobs has retracted his bitter tirade against Gunboat Smith, the referee of the contest, whose score card was overwhelmingly in favor of Sharkey.

"The Gunner in honest. I was just hot headed when I said anything else about him," Jacobs told me. "Naturally I was riled at the decision and I didn't think what I was saying when I accused him of robbing us. What the Gunner did, he did in what he thought was the way he saw the fight. I am convinced that he called the rounds as he saw them."

Titan Grid Is Being Improved This Summer

Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 24.—The Westminster College football field has been completely resurfaced, graded, and seeded during the last two weeks, John D. Lawther, director of athletics, states.

The playing field was in poor shape during the spring drills held by the Titan gridders, and officials started work on improving the grid as soon as college vacation started.

The surface of the playing field was plowed, the ground thoroughly raked, and stadium grass mixture was planted a week ago. A water pipe line to furnish water for the new sprinklers purchased by the college has been run from the gymnasium to the field.

While the fall training camp opening is a bit more than two months in the future, it is thought that the field will be in good shape by the time the men report.

Milwaukee Youth Is Tennis Star

Youth 16 Years Old, Defeats George Lott In Western Tennis Tournament

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 24.—Scarcely out of his knee breeches, a 16-year-old lad from Milwaukee was America's newest tennis champion today.

He is Frank Parker, small of stature, but with the power of a lion's paw in his racquet arm, the speed of a deer in his feet.

This slender, agile youth today had advanced to the semi-final round of the Western Tennis Tournament by virtue of a surprising triumph over the nation's second ranking star, George Lott of Chicago.

Seeded No. 1 in the tournament, Lott fell before the bullet base line drives and swift court maneuverings of his much younger adversary in a terrific five-set duel at the River Forest Club. All of Lott's craftiness derived from years of court campaigning proved insufficient to prevent young Parker from winning by the score of 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

The remaining quarter-final match was on today's schedule, bringing together Lester Stoeffen of Los Angeles and Wray Brown of St. Louis.

Max Schmeling Keeping Quiet About Decision

"I Have Never Uttered Protest," Says Former German Champion

THINKS OFFICIALS WERE VERY FAIR

By W. S. Farnsworth
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, June 24.—"I have no complaint to make about the officials. I believe all three of them who judged the fight were honest in the opinions they rendered. Of course I thought I won, but I have never uttered one word of protest against the verdict."

Max Schmeling, whose world's heavyweight title was shorn from him by a two to one vote of the New York state athletic commission officials in Tuesday night's battle with Jack Sharkey, made this statement Thursday.

Believes Officials Fair.

"I never questioned the officials either before or after their appointment to handle the bout. What has happened is history. We can't change the decision by talking about it," he said.

"I had a talk with Joe Jacobs and ordered him to stop complaining about the decision. All that talk did no good and it only stirred up feeling that was not good for boxing."

On top of this startling statement of Schmeling, Joe Jacobs followed with his official announcement:

"I lost my head when I talked over the radio and said Max had been robbed. I was excited and disappointed at the outcome of the fight. What I said was in anger and now that I have had time to cool off, I'm sorry for the foolish things I might have said."

Tenseness Lifted.

The dual statements by the two men most concerned in the outcome of the decision lifts much of the tenseness from the situation. Dark innuendos had been bandied about with "in the bag", "fixed" and other pesky terms prominent in the discussions.

Joe Jacobs has retracted his bitter tirade against Gunboat Smith, the referee of the contest, whose score card was overwhelmingly in favor of Sharkey.

"The Gunner is honest. I was just hot headed when I said anything else about him," Jacobs told me. "Naturally I was riled at the decision and I didn't think what I was saying when I accused him of robbing us. What the Gunner did, he did in what he thought was the way he saw the fight. I am convinced that he called the rounds as he saw them."

Titan Grid Is Being Improved This Summer

Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 24.—The Westminster College football field has been completely resurfaced, graded, and seeded during the last two weeks, John D. Lawther, director of athletics, states.

The playing field was in poor shape during the spring drills held by the Titan gridders, and officials started work on improving the grid as soon as college vacation started.

The surface of the playing field was plowed, the ground thoroughly raked, and stadium grass mixture was planted a week ago. A water pipe line to furnish water for the new sprinklers purchased by the college has been run from the gymnasium to the field.

While the fall training camp opening is a bit more than two months in the future, it is thought that the field will be in good shape by the time the men report.

Goslin Slams Three Homers

Goose Goslin Aids Browns In Shellacking Yankees In Weird Game 14 To 10

BROWNS-PHILS PLAYING BEST

By LES CONKLIN
Intrnational News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 24. — The Browns and Phillies and the two New York clubs made the best showing in the intersectional warfare which began in the big leagues on June 7 and ended yesterday.

The Browns, polishing off the Senators and Athletics and giving the Yanks two bad beatings, won eleven and lost six. The Phils compiled exactly the same record against the Western clubs in the National league.

Goslin Hits Three

The Phils and Browns wound up with a tremendous show of power yesterday, each club getting sixteen hits. Chuck Klein got his 21st homer, and with the bases full at that, as the Phils made it three out of four from the Cubs by winning a 16 to 10 slugfest.

Goose Goslin smacked three home runs, accounting for seven scores, while the Browns were shellacking the Yankees again, 14 to 10.

CORRECTING YOUR MENU

Every boy and girl should know that proper food is necessary to give the body strength it requires for athletics of any kind.

Food furnishes the fuel which makes possible the work of our muscles and internal organs and the protein, minerals and other substances required for growth and for the replacement of worn-out tissue.

You should eat plenty of vegetables, some of them raw in the form of salad; in addition to cereal, potatoes and bread and butter your diet should include meat fish or eggs and you should drink at least one full glass of milk with every meal. Eat fruit or ice cream for dessert, eschew pastries. This makes for a balanced menu, and a balanced menu is the secret of good health.

Try the above for two weeks and you will notice a marked change in your health.

HEALTH HINTS FOR AMATEUR ATHLETES

By JAS. J. CORBETT
Former Heavyweight Champion Of The World

These articles have been prepared by Mr. Corbett in cooperation with the staff of the Department of Health of the City of New York and are being released for the free use of newspapers throughout the country in the interest of the health of boys and girls.

CORRECTING YOUR MENU

Every boy and girl should know that proper food is necessary to give the body strength it requires for athletics of any kind.

Food furnishes the fuel which makes possible the work of our muscles and internal organs and the protein, minerals and other substances required for growth and for the replacement of worn-out tissue.

You should eat plenty of vegetables, some of them raw in the form of salad; in addition to cereal, potatoes and bread and butter your diet should include meat fish or eggs and you should drink at least one full glass of milk with every meal. Eat fruit or ice cream for dessert, eschew pastries. This makes for a balanced menu, and a balanced menu is the secret of good health.

Eat sparingly of sweets and then only after a meal. Do not eat between meals. If you feel hungry drink a glass of milk.

Try the above for two weeks and you will notice a marked change in your health.

ORR BEATS GORDON

Orr won from Gordon A. C. 6 to 4, on the Lehigh field yesterday. Kite hit a home run and doubles were produced by M. Bluedorn and H. Brown.

Schaaf-Pareda Are Matched For Bout

JERSEY CITY, June 24—A future threat for Jack Sharkey's newly acquired heavyweight crown may emerge from the ten-round bout between Ernie Schaaf of Boston, and Stanley Pareda, of Jersey City, at the West New York ball park tonight.

Schaaf, undefeated in a year and a half and rated by fistic experts as the third best heavyweight in the world, is a slight favorite.

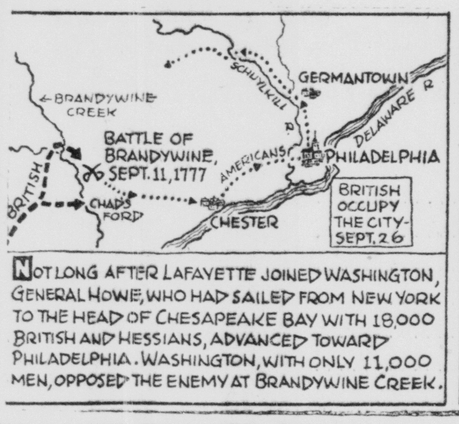
HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

LaFayette—No. 28. The Battle Of Brandywine

BY J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



NOT LONG AFTER LAFAYETTE JOINED WASHINGTON, GENERAL HOWE, WHO HAD SAILED FROM NEW YORK TO THE HEAD OF CHESAPEAKE BAY WITH 18,000 BRITISH AND HESSIANS, ADVANCED TOWARD PHILADELPHIA. WASHINGTON, WITH ONLY 11,000 MEN, OPPOSED THE ENEMY AT BRANDYWINE CREEK.

OUTNUMBERED AND OUTFLANKED, THE AMERICANS WERE FORCED TO RETIRE AFTER A STUBBORN RESISTANCE.

© 1932 BY J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

"TREAT HIM AS THOUGH HE WERE MY SON," WAS WASHINGTON'S ORDER AS THE WOUNDED MARQUIS WAS CARRIED FROM THE FIELD.....

Stock Market Is Unsettled

Commodities Show Little Activity—Bonds Make Slight Gain

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—Continued pressure on American Can, unsettled the stock market today after a firm opening.

Auburn ran up more than 2 points and American Telephone a point but the main body of stocks registered only slight improvement.

U. S. Steel preferred was another heavy spot while the common displayed a fairly firm tone. Other leaders tended lower.

Weakness in Atchison unsettled the rails, Union Pacific giving up more than a point. Allied Chemical was a weak specialty while B. M. T. continued to improve.

Bonds also showed apathy to the bank rate cut, with the governments alone making a mild response. Rails were unsettled by selling in the St. Louis San Francisco issues. Commodities did little, Wheat and Cotton holding around yesterday's closing levels.

Negress Picked Up Here Belonged In Youngstown, O.

Sends Clipping To Daughter And Is Located By Youngstown Authorities

Negress picked up at the New Castle hospital last Saturday and apparently unable to give her correct address to the authorities, who were also under the impression that she had a baby, which she must have abandoned, was late yesterday identified by Detectives Gipp and Turnball and Policewoman Mrs. M. B. Warner of the Youngstown police force as Mrs. Martha Monroe of that city. She gave the name of Martha Monroe when picked up here.

The Youngstown authorities made the trip here as a result of a letter received by a daughter of the woman in which she enclosed a clipping from The News concerning herself.

She has six children and her husband is employed. This is the fourth time that she has disappeared from her home in this manner. She left her home this time on last Thursday.

Crops Need Rain In Large Area Of State

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—The synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Pennsylvania for the week ending June 21, as compiled by the Philadelphia weather bureau follows:

Moderate to heavy showers apparently covered about two-thirds of the state during the week. In the eastern portion the rains occurred almost daily and the distribution was fairly general. In the western regions there were not so many rainy days, and the showers were more widely scattered. Many places reported no rain for the week.

In the favored sections most crops have made a rapid improvement, while the drought has become alarming in the drier regions. The general effect, where the rains have occurred, will be to save the corn crop and to greatly improve the grass lands and the potato and truck crops. There was little improvement in wheat, which is beginning to show color and is beyond help.

Wheat is reported good in some regions, but the greater portion of the crop seems to be below the average, and in some sections it is very poor. Oats were mostly heading on short straw, and much of the crop in the dry sections will be cut for hay. Corn has not been seriously damaged, even in the driest, but is showing the need of moisture and will be stunted beyond recovery unless rains come soon.

Pastures and meadows are turning brown in the dry sections, but are improving very rapidly where relieved by rains. Showers practically caused a suspension of field work in the eastern portion of the state, and especially the haying operations. When the rains began there was considerable hay in curing, of which the losses will be heavy.

The outlook for late potatoes was declining rapidly, but the scale has turned and is on the up-grade. The rains covered the chief truck growing regions and furnished much relief.

There has been little change in the general condition of orchard fruits. Cherries are ripening, and are fairly plentiful. There seems to be more soy beans being sown than usual, to supplement the hay crop. Tobacco is being set out in the fields, under favorable conditions.

STOCKS

Stock Market Is Unsettled

Commodities Show Little Activity—Bonds Make Slight Gain

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24.—Continued pressure on American Can, unsettled the stock market today after a firm opening.

Auburn ran up more than 2 points and American Telephone a point but the main body of stocks registered only slight improvement.

Selling of Atchison accompanied heaviness of American Can and this unsettled the market, wiping out the gains. Atchison sold down to a new low.

U. S. Steel preferred was another heavy spot while the common displayed a fairly firm tone. Other leaders tended lower.

Weakness in Atchison unsettled the rails, Union Pacific giving up more than a point. Allied Chemical was a weak specialty while B. M. T. continued to improve.

Bonds also showed apathy to the bank rate cut, with the governments alone making a mild response. Rails were unsettled by selling in the St. Louis San Francisco issues. Commodities did little. Wheat and Cotton holding around yesterday's closing levels.

Negress Picked Up Here Belonged In Youngstown, O.

Sends Clipping To Daughter And Is Located By Youngstown Authorities

Negress picked up at the New Castle hospital last Saturday and apparently unable to give her correct address to the authorities, who were also under the impression that she had a baby, which she must have abandoned, was late yesterday identified by Detectives Gipp and Turnbull and Policewoman Mrs. M. B. Warner of the Youngstown police force as Mrs. Martha Monroe of that city. She gave the name of Martha Monroe when picked up here.

The Youngstown authorities made the trip here as a result of a letter received by a daughter of the woman in which she enclosed a clipping from The News concerning herself.

She has six children and her husband is employed. This is the fourth time that she has disappeared from her home in this manner. She left her home this time on last Thursday.

Crops Need Rain In Large Area Of State

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—The synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Pennsylvania for the week ending June 21, as compiled by the Philadelphia weather bureau follows:

Moderate to heavy showers apparently covered about two-thirds of the state during the week. In the eastern portion the rains occurred almost daily and the distribution was fairly general. In the western regions there were not so many rainy days, and the showers were more widely scattered. Many places reported no rain for the week.

In the favored sections most crops have made a rapid improvement, while the drought has become alarming in the drier regions. The general effect, where the rains have occurred, will be to save the corn crop and to greatly improve the grass lands and the potato and truck crops. There was little improvement in wheat, which is beginning to show color and is beyond help.

Wheat is reported good in some regions, but the greater portion of the crop seems to be below the average, and in some sections it is very poor. Oats were mostly heading on short straw, and much of the crop in the dry sections will be cut for hay. Corn has not been seriously damaged, even in the driest, but is showing the need of moisture and will be stunted beyond recovery unless rains come soon.

Pastures and meadows are turning brown in the dry sections, but are improving very rapidly where relieved by rains. Showers practically caused a suspension of field work in the eastern portion of the state, and especially the haying operations. When the rains began there was considerable hay in curing, of which the losses will be heavy.

The outlook for late potatoes was declining rapidly, but the scale has turned and is on the up-grade. The rains covered the chief truck growing regions and furnished much relief.

There has been little change in the general condition of orchard fruits. Cherries are ripening, and are fairly plentiful. There seems to be more soy beans being sown than usual, to supplement the hay crop. Tobacco is being set out in the fields, under favorable conditions.

Democrats In Senate Draft Party Issues

Will Present Three-Fold Program To Unofficial Platform Committees

WOULD SMASH TRADE BARRIERS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24—A three-fold program for smashing International trade barriers and reviving world commerce was drafted early today by the Democratic senate bloc for presentation to the party's unofficial platform committee.

The program would place the party on record as advocating:

1. An international economic conference of the world's leading financial, commercial and industrial authorities to restore normal exchange, monetary and trade relations.

2. Reciprocal trade agreements between America and its foreign commercial competitors, based on mutual trade concessions.

3. A slashing of American tariffs by Congress, acting with the aid of a fact-finding commission, after abondoning the present flexible tariff provision.

Economic Plank

This economic plank will be presented by Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, with the support of other senatorial representatives on the platform committee. It will be a part of the senate bloc's demand for a concentration of economic issues, as a means of avoiding warfare on the prohibition issue.

The unofficial platform committee, headed by former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, resumed its public hearings. The day's program included representatives of peace organizations, who asked for a world peace plank. Judson King, a progressive, was given a chance to appeal for a plank, proposing strict state and federal regulation of power utilities and Geo. W. Lassiter, of Chicago, was awarded time to demand reduction of governmental expenditures.

Fearful of starting the wet and dry war too soon, the committee postponed action on the prohibition plank indefinitely. It probably will not be considered before the opening of the convention next week.

Wets have declared they will battle to the finish for an outright repeal plank, despite the pleas of most leaders for a compromise on a resubmission plank.

Farm relief and unemployment relief were considered controversial issues as well. Peter B. Carey, of the Chicago Board of Trade, was to open discussion on the farm issue this afternoon. He planned to object to any further governmental aid for the federal farm board. He may project another row that will take a vote of the convention to decide, as Western Democrats have been strong supporters of the farm board.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

MR. COWDEN WRITES

Mahoningtown, Pa., R. F. D.
Editor of The News:

I noticed in your issue of June 22 an article on the new court house from the pen of J. A. Boak that is right to the point and contains as much good common sense as was ever penned in that many words if there ever was a time when we should being good old fashioned hard common sense principles into the management of public affairs that time is right now. There are voters in this county that have not paid a cent of tax in the last 25 years and everyone of them would vote for a new court house if we had a vote taken on the question. Is there anything fair about that? Is it fair and right and just and honorable for one man to vote a tax for another man to pay. If we are to have a vote on the matter of a new court house let it be a vote of the taxpayers and not a vote of the floaters that would be buried at the expense of the county if they were run over with an auto on the way home from the election. The tax problem is a serious one to a good many farmers and working men many of whom will borrow the money this year to pay their taxes.

The writer of this article has by dint of practicing rigid economy succeeded in getting his road tax paid and has fairly good prospect of getting his county and state tax paid before the snow flies but his school tax will probably go over until Hoover is elected and probably inaugurated and fairly started on his second term. Men and brethren let us all pull together for the 18th amendment for good government and see if we can save something out of the wreck.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Out along the country highways the fireworks stands are getting under way for the "glorious Fourth." Pinwheels and small crackers, torpedoes and cannon crackers, skyrockets, set pieces, all of them for the purpose of demonstrating in a loud way our ideas of the nation's birthday.

The old days are gone in the cities, the days when for a dime a small boy could buy enough explosives to tear half a leg off. People were patriotic in the old days, if shooting off firecrackers is patriotism. There was the time when you could buy a torpedo cane, remember then, guaranteed to be good for at least three severe burns to a package and always good for a case of hysterics when exploded close to some old woman.

And those yellow wrapped bulldog crackers. Short and snubby, but filled, I have always thought, with a charge of dynamite. Many a chap about 30 or 35 can point with questionable pride to a stump that was once a finger, a casualty of the "gold old days."

Lockjaw was not so uncommon after a stirring celebration of the Fourth. A cracker that didn't explode, an investigation by a small boy, a sudden retort, and a burned hand and in a few days the old tetanus germs were having a field day.

Those were grand days, if you didn't know any better. Our gang used to gather on the fifth of July to compare injuries but somehow we never won much distinction in the comparison. Ours were usually a collection of small burns whereas the kid down the street nearly had a couple of toes blown off one year. And as for that kid who had a cannon cracker explode right in his face, boy he was a big timer.

Then some meanie who thought a boy's legs were intended as a part of his permament equipment and that his hands and fingers ought to show a full count, decided that the accepted way of celebrating the Fourth was a trifle dangerous to say the least. Life and limb were found to weigh more in the scale of public opinion than a lot of firecrackers that carried injury and death in their red wrappers and the things were cut out, at least in the cities.

Now the country kids have a monopoly on the opportunities to blow off a finger or a toe. Patriotism seems to run higher in the townships, along with the possibilities of accident.

All the kids in the city can do now is to wait for dark and see the big set pieces of fireworks that show Custer's Last Stand, Ajax Defying the Lightning, and Niagara Falls on a frosty morning, all in pyrotechnics. And then have to go home with nary a single burn or bruise. Seems kind of tough if you look at it that way.

Our own idea of an ideal way to celebrate the Fourth, is to get out in the woods where enthusiastic and irresponsible drivers can't wrap their cars around a fire plug, where the population averages about one to ten acres, and where one's ear drums are safe from assault. Perhaps we're getting old.

Kiddies Of All Sizes Flocking To Carnegie Playground These Days

And by the time nine o'clock arrives each morning and the Carnegie playground gates swing open, a couple hundred youngsters eagerly pour in. Their eyes sparkling excitedly they start in the fascinating business of play which is only broken for a few minutes when they rush home to lunch.

This playground on South Jefferson street is under the supervision of the city this year. It opened up last Monday and already the kiddies have built scores of elaborate sand castles, tearing them down to build them again. Many an extra heart beat has been created by the long thrilling slides. Already the see-saws have made as many dips as a steamer in the Atlantic. Already the suspension rings have been worn shiney by use. And many a victory and many a defeat has taken place over the checker boards.

Walter "Tad" Thorne and Miss Katherine Fleckenstine, who are in charge of the activities, have their hands full, complying with the moods and desires of the boys and girls, but manage to keep them all contented and busy. Thorne has organized mushball, baseball and tennis teams already. Miss Fleckenstine is getting materials together for the girls to make handcraft articles for their homes. Classes for girls will be underway soon.

Dominoes, (the game which has made such a come-back in the high society circle,) is gaining great popularity at the playground this season, according to Miss Flenckenstine. The little boys and girls were quite intrigued by the small white-dotted cubes earlier in the week and spent hours playing with them. Miss Fleckenstine went over to the table to watch them and was surprized to find they had no knowledge of the game. She sat down and taught them how to play it. At first some found it difficult to count the white dots but before long they became quite expert. Now they are real "dominoe" fiends and not slide or swing or wading pool is sufficient to lure them from the game.

All sizes and all ages are to be found among the playground users. The youngest child on the opening day had been in this world just four months.

Tennis is the sport liked most by the older boys. Paddle tennis on a miniature court beckens the younger players.

Added to the usual playground equipment there are acrobatic bars, shower baths, library, garden of flowers, greenhouse, drinking fountain (which the youngsters call "the pump,") and a volleyball court.

One tented over area is devoted to the use of checker players. It is a curious part of the playground because it is just as quiet as the rest is noisy. Any too boisterous player is quickly squelched with the reprimand by one of the more serious "Shut up and let me think."

Democrats In Senate Draft Party Issues

Will Present Three-Fold Program To Unofficial Platform Committees

WOULD SMASH TRADE BARRIERS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 24—A three-fold program for smashing International trade barriers and reviving world commerce was drafted early today by the Democratic senate bloc for presentation to the party's unofficial platform committee.

The program would place the party on record as advocating:

1. An international economic conference of the world's leading financial, commercial and industrial authorities to restore normal exchange, monetary and trade relations.

2. Reciprocal trade agreements between America and its foreign commercial competitors, based on mutual trade concessions.

3. A slashing of American tariffs by Congress, acting with the aid of a fact-finding commission, after abondoning the present flexible tariff provision.

Economic Plank

This economic plank will be presented by Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, with the support of other senatorial representatives on the platform committee. It will be a part of the senate bloc's demand for a concentration of economic issues, as a means of avoiding warfare on the prohibition issue.

The unofficial platform committee, headed by former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, resumed its public hearings. The day's program included representatives of peace organizations, who asked for a world peace plank. Judson King, a progressive, was given a chance to appeal for a plank, proposing strict state and federal regulation of power utilities and Geo. W. Lassiter, of Chicago, was awarded time to demand reduction of governmental expenditures.

The Roosevelt forces were seeking a 25 word plank on prohibition but that seemed scarcely possible.

Fearful of starting the wet and dry war too soon, the committee postponed action on the prohibition plank indefinitely. It probably will not be considered before the opening of the convention next week.

Wets have declared they will battle to the finish for an outright repeal plank despite the pleas of most leaders for a compromise on a resubmission plank.

Farm relief and unemployment relief were considered controversial issues as well. Peter B. Carey, of the Chicago Board of Trade, was to open discussion on the farm issue this afternoon. He planned to object to any further governmental aid for the federal farm board. He may project another row that will take a vote of the convention to decide, as Western Democrats have been strong supporters of the farm board.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

MR. COWDEN WRITES

Mahoningtown, Pa., R. F. D.
Editor of The News:

I noticed in your issue of June 22 an article on the new court house from the pen of J. A. Boak that is right to the point and contains as much good common sense as was ever penned in that many words if there ever was a time when we should bring good old fashioned good common sense principles into the management of public affairs that time is right now. There are voters in this county that have not paid a cent of tax in the last 25 years and everyone of them would vote for a new court house if we had a vote taken on the question. Is there anything fair about that? Is it fair and right and just and honorable for one man to vote a tax for another man to pay. If we are to have a vote on the matter of a new court house let it be a vote of the taxpayers and not a vote of the floaters that would be buried at the expense of the county if they were run over with an auto on the way home from the election. The tax problem is a serious one to a good many farmers and working men many of whom will borrow the money this year to pay their taxes.

The writer of this article has by dint of practicing rigid economy succeeded in getting his road tax paid and has fairly good prospect of getting his county and state tax paid before the snow flies but his school tax will probably go over until Hoover is elected and probably inaugurated and fairly started on his second term. Men and brethren let us all pull together for the 18th amendment for good government and see if we can save something out of the wreck.

ROAMING

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Out along the country highways the fireworks stands are getting under way for the "glorious Fourth." Pinwheels and small crackers, torpedoes and cannon crackers, skyrockets, set pieces, all of them for the purpose of demonstrating in a loud way our ideas of the nation's birthday.

The old days are gone in the cities, the days when for a dime a small boy could buy enough explosives to tear half a leg off. People were patriotic in the old days, if shooting off firecrackers is patriotism. There was the time when you could buy a torpedo cane, remember then, guaranteed to be good for at least three severe burns to a package and always good for a case of hysterics when exploded close to some old woman.

And those yellow wrapped bulldog crackers. Short and snubby, but filled, I have always thought, with a charge of dynamite. Many a chap about 30 or 35 can point with questionable pride to a stump that was once a finger, a casualty of the "gold old days."

Lockjaw was not so uncommon after a stirring celebration of the Fourth. A cracker that didn't explode, an investigation by a small boy, a sudden retort, and a burned hand and in a few days the old tetanus germs were having a field day.

Those were grand days, if you didn't know any better. Our gang used to gather on the fifth of July to compare injuries but somehow we never won much distinction in the comparison. Ours were usually a collection of small burns whereas the kid down the street nearly had a couple of toes blown off one year. And as for that kid who had a cannon cracker explode right in his face, boy he was a big timer.

Then some meanie who thought a boy's legs were intended as a part of his permament equipment and that his hands and fingers ought to show a full count, decided that the accepted way of celebrating the Fourth was a trifle dangerous to say the least. Life and limb were found to weigh more in the scale of public opinion than a lot of firecrackers that carried injury and death in their red wrappers and the things were cut out, at least in the cities.

Now the country kids have a monopoly on the opportunities to blow off a finger or a toe. Patriotism seems to run higher in the townships, along with the possibilities of accident.

All the kids in the city can do now is to wait for dark and see the big set pieces of fireworks that show Custer's Last Stand, Ajax Defying the Lightning, and Niagara Falls on a frosty morning, all in pyrotechnics. And then have to go home with nary a single burn or bruise. Seems kind of tough if you look at it that way.

Our own idea of an ideal way to celebrate the Fourth, is to get out in the woods where enthusiastic and irresponsible drivers can't wrap their cars around a fire plug, where the population averages about one to ten acres, and where one's ear drums are safe from assault. Perhaps we're getting old.
